Congress Talking of Continuous Session

Big Defense Bills Await Final Action

Washington—(AP)—Taking their cue from President Roosevelt, most members of congress talked today of combining a national political campaign with a continuous session of congress.

"I pity anybody who proposes to adjourn with the present temper of the country," said Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

From the Democratic ranks, Senator George (D-Ga.) predicted that the pending "excess profits" tax proposal, compulsory military training, and an assortment of defense measures would keep legislative machinery busy for many weeks.

With both major political conventions out of the way, congress will re-assemble Monday after nearly a month of slight activity.

On the senate side, Democratic Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) and Republican Leader McNary (R-Ore.) had a "gentlemen's agreement" that no important legislation would be acted upon next week.

McNary, the Republican candidate for vice president, has scores of personal details to handle while Barkley, along with many other Democrats, needs a few days to recuperate from the Chicago convention.

Sought to Adjourn

Previous to the conventions Democratic Leader Barkley pressed unsuccessfully—and apparently with White House approval—for a speedy adjournment of congress.

Opponents of the program pointed today to President's Roosevelt's speech accepting the Democratic nomination for a third term when he spoke of "the added task which present crisis has imposed upon the congress, compelling them to forego their usual adjournment."

Inasmuch as President Roosevelt announced that he would stay close to his job here in Washington during the political campaign, many members of the house and senate said they would adopt this same strategy for their own reelection drives.

Much as Mr. Roosevelt likes to travel, he told the Democratic convention in his speech accepting a third term nomination that "the president in these days" must "remain close to the seat of government."

As to the chief executive's acceptance, Vice President Garner maintained resolute silence. From other quarters, however, there came continued third term criticism, predictions of Democratic bolts to Willkie, and also assertions that the third term issue would be unimportant.

"Different" Campaign
International affairs and the preparedness program, Mr. Roosevelt said, made it necessary for him to remain near Washington, and hence the approaching campaign would be "different" in some respects from the "usual national campaigns of recent years."

The development of the vast defense program might offer the president an excuse to make some inspection trips to defense installations and projects. But some of his associates said he had no plans for any.

Officials expect the president to spend an increasingly greater portion of his time this summer at Hyde Park, where he could call in the people he wanted to see for defense or foreign affairs conferences and still get back to Washington in six or seven hours by train, if necessary.

And, as it is shaping up at the moment, the chief executive's campaign, like his third-term acceptance speech, will be tied closely with the strengthening of America's defenses.

In such a campaign, Democratic leaders said, that a large share of efforts to build strength for the Democratic ticket would have to be left to state and local party leaders.

Does He Know Girls?

The noted marine painter, Ragnar Olsen, explaining why he only paints seascapes, said "No girl has the beauty of the sea." That depends on circumstances. Most any girl can act green, feel blue, be deep, stormy or becalmed according to which way the wind blows, and these days they can be as permanently waved as the best of oceans. True, the sea has one advantage. It's full of fish. But then, every week has a Friday. And good used household articles may be had through The Post-Crescent classified want-ads. This one sold the goods:

BEDROOM SET—Bed, dresser, chest, spring and mattress, 1940 Zenith radio, $24. Porch blinds, Ten 2840 or 113M, Little Chute.

Scheduled ad for 8 times. Received many calls and sold merchandise after the 3rd day, when the ad was cancelled out.

LOSER TO WINNER: HERE'S LUCK—Speaker William B. Bankhead (left) of Alabama, who ran second in the Democratic vice presidential balloting, wishes luck to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace (right) as they met in Chicago the day after Wallace's selection as President Roosevelt's running mate.

Asks Defense Projects For Midwest Plants

Washington—(AP)—The national defense advisory commission received a protest this week against proposed expansion of eastern plants with Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds under the national defense program.

Asserting that midwest factories and plants available for manufacture of war materials and other supplies should first be utilized, Representative Pittenger (R-Minn.) asked for "proper consideration" for that area in placing government contracts.

In a letter to Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., commission member, Pittenger asserted various developments indicated eastern locations would be favored in the program and requested his "vigorous protest" against such procedure.

Reds Remove Latvia's Chief

Prime Minister to Take Over Duties of Ousted President

Stockholm—(AP)—Latvia's new communist regime decreed today the removal of President Karl Ulmanis, who helped write the country's declaration of independence in 1918.

The presidential functions henceforth will be administered by Prime Minister Kirchenstein, little-known 68-year-old former veterinarian and lecturer on bacteriology.

Ulmanis, 62, an agriculturist educated in the United States at the University of Nebraska, consolidated his power as dictator in 1934 by an army coup.

The decree, nullifying the president's office, was published on the eve of the convening of the new communist parliament which, like those of Estonia and Lithuania also meeting tomorrow, is expected to vote for union with soviet Russia.

Lithuania's President Stomona fled the country and was interned in Germany when soviet Russia occupied the country, and President Paeis of Estonia is expected to be dismissed.

Giant street parades will mark the assembling of the new parliament tomorrow. A Swedish press dispatch said that 60,000 soviet flags were ordered for Riga alone.

Report Reds Have Data to Paralyze City of New York

Beaumont, Texas—(AP)—The Dies anti-American committee was told today that the Communist party has obtained information through which it could demoralize with a few hours the city of New York.

Maps and photographs of every industry essential to communication, transportation and life itself in the nation's industrial capital has been obtained by the Communists through a writer's WPA project, committee sources said it learned.

Two investigators, George Hurley and Steve Birmingham, brought the evidence before the committee.

Submitted material purported to show that the Communists have all vital information pertaining to the water supply, electricity, subways, food and milk centers, pneumatic tubes, railroads, gas supplies and bridges.

Maps and charts detail all underground water mains, terminals, subway switches, electrical switches and police and fire department signal systems.

Woman Killed In Truck Crash West of Neenah

Sister, Driver Hurt; Menasha Man Fatally Injured at Ladysmith

A woman hitch-hiker was killed, her sister critically injured and a Menasha man was fatally hurt in accidents near Neenah and Ladysmith yesterday.

Mrs. Joseph Jaje, 22, Clintonville, died of a skull fracture and Mrs. Lila Johnson, her sister, Lancaster, Ohio, suffered a broken back and internal injuries when a truck, in which they had hitched a ride, plunged off the road and hit a light pole on Highway 45, three miles west of Neenah, about 10:45 last night.

John VanNoort, 30, Waupun, driver of the truck, suffered scalp lacerations and a possible brain concussion. The trio was taken to Theda Clark hospital, Neenah, and Mrs. Jaje was dead on arrival. Her sister's condition is considered critical.

Lewis C. Magnusen, district attorney, and Dr. G. A. Steele, coroner, said this morning an inquest was scheduled for early this afternoon. Winnebago county police said VanNoort was attempting to pass a motorcycle when the accident occurred. He lost control of the car which careened to the left and crashed into a light pole.

Born at Clintonville
Mrs. Jaje was born March 2, 1918, at Clintonville and lived there all of her life.

Survivors are her husband, a son, Richard, Clintonville; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Bodah, Clintonville; two sisters, Mrs. Johnson, Lancaster, Ohio, and Mrs. Norman Olson, town of Madison; and four brothers, Marshall and Charles, Clintonville; Everett, town of Madison, and Emory, Jr., Marion.

Ernest Arndt, 30, 211 Railroad street, Menasha, died at 2 o'clock this morning from injuries received in an automobile accident near Ladysmith.

According to information received by relatives here, Arndt, who is employed as a truck driver for the Menasha-Wooden Ware company, was a passenger in an automobile when it struck a culvert about 11 o'clock last night. Arndt drove a company truck to Ladysmith yesterday morning and was scheduled to return to Menasha today.

Arndt was born in Menasha July 22, 1909.

Survivors are two brothers, Fred, Menasha, and Walter, Neenah; and six sisters, Mrs. Anton Schroeder, Mrs. Clara Witt, Mrs. Merton Duval, Mrs. Tom Kuthe, Mrs. Orrie Butler and Mrs. William Rae. The body will be returned to Menasha.

2-Ocean Fleet Bill Is Signed

Program Authorizes Building of 200 New Ships and Submarines

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt has signed into law a bill authorizing a $4,610,000,000 expansion of the navy designed to give the United States a "two ocean" fleet capable of meeting any possible hostile combination.

The White House announced the signing today, while Mr. Roosevelt was enroute on the Potomac river.

The chief executive already had asked congress to provide $83,000,000 to start work on the new program, which would give the nation a total of 701 fighting craft built around the world's most powerful single aggregation of capital ships—35 dreadnaughts.

In addition to about 200 new surface ships and submarines to cost $4,610,000,000 with the additional facilities they will require, the new law authorized the navy to acquire for $600,000,000 a total of 15,000 airplanes 50 per cent more than the previously authorized maximum. If the president deems them necessary even more may be ordered.

Hoffman Tentatively Low Bidder on New Courthouse

Bids on Outagamie county's $525,000 court house were opened yesterday by the courthouse building committee and are being tabulated before contracts are awarded.

Low bid on the general contract was submitted by W. C. Smith, Duluth, who this morning filed an application to withdraw his bid because of a $100,000 mistake in his figures. His bid was $294,000 and should have been $394,000, he told the committee.

The committee will meet at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon to consider Smith's application to withdraw his proposal.

If withdrawal is permitted, the low bid will be that of the Hoffman Construction company, Appleton, which submitted a bid of $320,054 on the general contract. Other low offers were the Jensen Construction company, Minneapolis, $333,900; Koopke Construction company, Appleton, $334,470; and George Solitt and Sons, Chicago, $345,627.

The highest of 19 bids submitted was that of Oliver Weidman, Milwaukee, $401,000.

England Scorns Peace Bid; New Air Attacks

Berlin Sees No Hope for Acceptance

Berlin—(AP)—Smashing blows at Britain by sea and air were reported by the high command today as informed German quarters saw hope for acceptance of Adolf Hitler's "last" peace offer doomed by its "rowdyish" reception in London.

Summing up the latest aerial forays against Britain, the high command declared that the Nazi air force had bombed harbor facilities, supply depots and anti-aircraft defenses, sunk one 5,000-ton merchant ship and damaged three other merchant vessels and a destroyer.

In these operations the Nazi losses were three planes, while 27 British planes were shot down, a communiqué said.

A single German submarine also was reported to have sunk 24,700 tons of merchant shipping.

New British Raids
The British air force was acknowledged to have carried out further raids last night on northern and western Germany.

Official quarters maintained silence on the reception accorded the fuhrer's peace offer by the British, and it was believed unlikely that any statement would be issued immediately.

Informed sources said, however, that German radio stations would keep on dinning Hitler's words into English ears until the proverbial man-in-the-street knows exactly what is in store for him if he does not get rid of the ruling "plutocratic clique."

An English translation is being broadcast "frequently," they said. Authorized Nazi quarters refused to accept the reaction thus far made available from Reuters, British news agency, the British Broadcasting Corporation and individual newspapers as the true voice of the British people.

Up to Hitler
These commentaries represent the opinion "merely of the plutocratic clique," they asserted, adding:

"What strikes us is the haste with which these insolent commentaries from every capital of the world were issued."

545 Italians are Saved by British

Cairo—(AP)—The British rescued 545 men from the Batholomeo Collo, Italian cruiser sunk in a Mediterranean naval battle yesterday, a British communiqué asserted.

No casualties were suffered by the British in the action, the British said, although the Italian air force bombed their ships several times while they were rescuing the Italians from the water and while the fleet was returning to its base.

Italian communiques asserted their air force sank one British ship.

Detroit Woman Dies In Automobile Crash

Sparta, Wis.—(AP)—Mrs. Edmond D. Girardot, 35, of Detroit, was injured fatally last night in a head-on automobile collision near Camp Douglas. She died shortly after being brought to a Sparta hospital.

Edmond D. Girardot, 40, of Detroit, was critically injured. He still was unconscious today. Archie McCormick, 35, of Chicago, suffered minor injuries.

The accident occurred when Girardot swerved to avoid hitting the rear end of a truck and crashed head-on with McCormick's car. McCormick informed the authorities. Sheriff H. T. Jenkins said his investigation showed that the tail light on the truck was not functioning.

HITLER GIVES BRITAIN 'LAST CHANCE'—This picture, sent by radio from Berlin to New York, shows Adolf Hitler (center) as he addressed the Reichstag and the world, warning Great Britain to withdraw from the conflict or see destruction of her world empire and terror for millions. Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering is standing above and behind Hitler.

No 'Noble Motives' in Race, Willkie States

'Deep-Seated Convictions' Led Him Into Presidential Race, He Asserts

Colorado Springs, Colo.—(AP)—

Wendell L. Willkie settled back into his vacation routine today after declaring in a brief address at Denver, he would "make no pretense of noble motives" in seeking the presidency.

"I frankly sought the opportunity to run for president on the Republican ticket because I have some deep-seated convictions I want to present to the American people and which, if I am elected, I want to carry into execution," the nominee said.

Willkie made the talk while a luncheon guest yesterday at the Denver Union stockyards. He conferred informally with cattle and sheep men and visited a beet-sugar plant.

"Well," interposed Farmer Ehlen, "there's a place across the road that gets 110 bushels to the acre. This hybrid corn yields heavier."

Ehlen then showed his visitor about the farm. Willkie shook hands with several dozen farmers and with several who gathered at the Ehlen place on hearing the nominee was there.

While at Denver, Willkie received a telegram from Don R. Burton, a friend now at Bohemian Grove, Calif., advising him that Irvin S. Cobb, the Paducah, Ky., humorist, intended to support the Republican nominee as "a real fellow Democrat."

Lifelong Democrat Says Sugar Industry To Oppose Wallace

New Orleans, La.—(AP)—A spokesman for Louisiana's $130,000,000 sugar industry joined the state's national Democratic delegates and its "reform" governor today in a revolt against Secretary Wallace as the Democratic vice presidential candidate.

Charles A. Farwell, spokesman for the American Sugar Cane League and a lifelong Democrat, pinned on a "Willkie for President" button, protesting that Wallace did "all in his power to destroy" the sugar industry.

The state's delegates to the national Democratic convention deserted Wallace because of the agricultural secretary's sugar quota restriction program and plow-up campaign. They cast their 20 votes for Speaker Bankhead.

One of the delegates, John Cafery of St. Mary parish, announced he would vote for Willkie. At the same time Governor Sam Jones declared he was against Wallace "1,000 per cent."

Says Nation Set for Test Of Strength

London—(AP)—Britain ignored Adolf Hitler's "final appeal" for peace on his own terms today and indicated she is ready for a test of strength, undaunted by Nazi threats driven home by one of the worst air-raids of the war.

A scornful silence was the government's answer to the German dictator, who yesterday gave England the choice of coming to terms or facing "total destruction."

It was intimated Prime Minister Churchill might have some comment to make Tuesday in the house of commons but official circles pointed out that he had emphasized only last Sunday Britain's determination to fight on to a finish and they declared Hitler's "offer" scarcely merited an answer.

The press and public were more vocal in their reaction to the fuhrer's speech, which was viewed in many quarters as nothing more than an effort to drive a wedge between Churchill and the people.

Nazi Renew Air Raids

Hitler's assertion that the British people were being led astray by their leaders in continuing the war was heard by the public by radio and was read in the press, which carried full texts of the speech.

As though to emphasize Hitler's threats, German warplanes struck at southeast Scotland and southwest

'Offer' to U. S.

London—(AP)—The London Sketch, in its "inside information" column, said today that one of the things Adolf Hitler failed to mention in his speech was a "fantastic plan to 'offer' Canada to the United States" which Ribbentrop (German foreign minister) conceived and is having circulated tentatively in Washington.

The paper added that by this plan, which it said had been communicated to leading propagandists in the United States, "Hitler will give a solemn pledge not to interfere in the Americas after he has 'finished' with Britain. As proof of his sincerity, he would agree to the incorporation of Canada."

England, early this morning, continuing a series of raids which yesterday produced one of the greatest aerial battles of the war.

Bombs were dropped on several towns in today's raids, and at one point a German plane was reported to have machine-gunned civilians on a railway platform. The air ministry said a number of houses had been destroyed and reported "some casualties" but no deaths.

Two Raiders Downed
Two of the raiders were officially reported shot down, bringing to 15 the number of Nazi craft destroyed in the last 24 hours.

Ten German planes were shot down yesterday, when 30 British fighters engaged an army formation of 120 aircraft over the channel, and three others were downed by anti-aircraft fire.

The British navy was confronted with a new problem when it was announced that a German sea raider is "at large in the Atlantic" after sinking two British merchant ships—the 5,228-ton St. John and 6,433-ton Davidian—near the West Indies.

The government, meanwhile, designated Lieutenant General Sir Alan Brooke as commander-in-chief of the home forces to succeed General Sir Edmund Ironside.

Hull Optimistic About Conference

Havana—(AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, returning to Cuba for the first time since he fought for the island's freedom in the Spanish-American war, expressed confidence today the Havana conference of American republics would demonstrate their "vigor and vitality" in working together "for their common interest."

In a brief statement on landing from Miami, Secretary Hull recalled his experiences on the island as a young captain of Tennessee volunteers and said he returned now as "a friend among friends."

The conference, which opens tomorrow, was called at the United States' suggestion after the Nazi invasion of the low countries to discuss western hemisphere defense and economy.

"We are meeting to discuss problems essential to the life of the Americas," Hull's statement said. "I have no doubt that this consultation will prove an added demonstration of the vigor and the vitality of American republics working together for their common interest."

Claim Russia Has Most Submarines

Moscow—(AP)—The youth league newspaper Comsomol Pravda claimed today that soviet Russia possesses the largest and best submarine fleet in the world. "Numerous new ships, it asserted, are under construction.

Pointing out that soviet territory touches 14 seas and oceans, the newspaper said "we ought to have such a navy."

Insurance Fund Lacks Records, Auditor States

County Boards Group Reports on Survey Made at Its Request

Madison—(P)—The Wisconsin county boards association today published in its official magazine a report of an audit of the state fire insurance fund declaring administration of the funds, in some respects, was not guided by rules and regulations applied to privately managed insurance companies.

The audit of the fund, which offers coverage for municipal and state properties, was ordered by Insurance Commissioner Marvin E. Duell at the request of the association. The association's magazine presented a digest of the findings by K. G. Kurtenacker, public accountant.

It quoted the report as saying that "a considerable amount of mortgage interest which apparently was due the fund was not received" and that records for the period covered by the audit, which was from 1934 to 1939, were insufficient to reflect properly the various transactions of the fund.

The report said the fund showed consistent profits on its investments but records were not kept "in accordance with the best accounting principles and insurance practices." The auditors rejected as an "admitted asset" $1,204,815 which had been loaned and disbursed up to December 31, 1939 for construction of the new state office building, and treated as a reserve from surplus $667,021 which had been loaned for the building but not spent at that time.

The report said the fund had received no returns on these investments. (A 1939 law authorized the office building commission to establish rentals to repay the fund in a period not to exceed 20 years).

Also rejected as an "admitted asset" was $276,148.50 which the report said was a balance due on a loan for construction of the Wisconsin orthopedic hospital, for which there was no apparent provision of repayment.

The statement showed net assets of $2,874,484.44 and a surplus of $2,011,419.75 available for protection of policyholders. It said for the five years under review the underwriting profits were more than $100,000 a year.

Paving Projects Assessment Made

Board of public works set $1 per running foot as the assessment to be paid for soil-cement stabilized paving on two Appleton streets as it met yesterday afternoon. The levy includes the covering for the pavement. It will be laid on N. Superior street from Parkway boulevard to the city limits and on Winnebago street from Richmond to Badger avenue. Assessments will be on file at the city clerk's office until July 31, on which day the hearing for objections and complaints will be held.

Also assessed yesterday were curb and gutter construction charges on E. Hancock street from Morrison street to Superior street, and N. Lincoln avenue from Wisconsin avenue to Summer street. The hearing on these assessments is slated for July 31 also.

Wallace Isn't Too Popular With Badger Farmers—Gehrmann

Washington—(P)—Representative Gehrmann (Prog-Wis.) said today that Secretary Wallace, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, probably would be acceptable to the corn and wheat belt farmers but that he would not strengthen the ticket in Wisconsin.

In a statement commenting on the nomination of Roosevelt and Wallace, the congressman declared Wallace had "consistently fought the dairy bill (HR 6500) which would make dairying eligible for farm benefit payments."

"Wallace and the department feel the legislation, making dairying a basic commodity under the agricultural adjustment act, is not workable and many dairy farmers are bitter about it," he asserted.

The Wisconsin state also expressed doubt, however, that Senator McNary (R-Ore.), the Republican vice presidential nominee, would look upon the dairy bill with any more favor than Wallace.

Knox Says U. S. for Compulsory Training

Manchester, N. H.—(P)—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said today "the country as a whole is urgently demanding some form of compulsory military training" and there is "every prospect" that congress will approve such a program when it reassembles.

Here to spend the weekend with Mrs. Knox at his summer home, the colonel said such procedure was the only democratic way for a democracy "to organize its defenses so that the burden falls equally on rich and poor alike."

Dies of Injuries

Council Bluffs, Iowa—(P)—B. W. Utman of Modale, Iowa, former mayor of Hudson, Wis., died in a local hospital yesterday of injuries suffered in an accident at his farm July 5.

FARLEY TURNS TO PRIVATE BUSINESS—Re-elected by acclamation in Chicago to serve as chairman of the Democratic national committee until Aug. 17, James A. Farley (center) is shown as he talked over results of the party convention with L. W. "Chip" Robert, Jr. (left), secretary of the national committee, and Oliver A. Quayle, Jr., treasurer. After that date it is generally assumed that Farley will become president of the New York Yankees.

War Situation Today

Nazis Disappointed by Britain's Reception of Hitler Peace Offer

Germany turned radio propaganda guns on the British public today, warning of the death and destruction it may face if it persists in refusing to take Adolf Hitler's "final" road to peace.

The Nazi objective seemed to be to sow distrust of their leadership in British minds. An English translation of Hitler's speech yesterday was broadcast again and again in England.

Elsewhere, the impression grew that Hitler's long-threatened attack in force against the United Kingdom had come closer.

Informed sources in Berlin agreed the first reception in Britain of Hitler's "appeal to reason" was discouraging, "rowdy" and "rude," but said this was the "plutocratic clique" speaking. German expectations turned, instead, upon the British "man in the street."

The German high command tallied up new operations against Britain in a report that Nazi bombers had blasted harbors, anti-aircraft defenses and supply stations, sunk a 5,000-ton merchant ship, damaged three other vessels and a destroyer.

In these forays, said the high command, three German planes were lost, against 27 British planes shot down.

The general reaction in Great Britain to Hitler's threats to destroy the empire if it refuses his offer was that he made no concrete proposals and that his speech was "old stuff."

The press told Hitler he spoke in vain. The British said they shot down four German bombers and seven fighter planes in two big aerial battles Friday and believed they got another early today over southeast Scotland. Five British planes were missing, the air ministry reported.

The British reported their own bombers were raining deep into Germany and German-held territory. One of the objectives bombed was the great Krupp armament and munitions works at Essen.

Aircraft factories and oil depots at Bremen, Hanover, Diepholz and elsewhere were bombed in Thursday night-Friday morning raids, as were ammunition trains east of Bremen and barge concentrations on the Dutch and French coasts.

Great fleets of barges, many persons believe, will be used by the Germans in the ultimate attempt to invade Britain.

In the Italian-British naval warfare in the Mediterranean the Italian high command admitted the loss of the cruiser Esploratore Colsoni, but at the same time claimed that a British warship had been sunk by bombs in a three-hour fight.

In Berlin informed German sources said any British hint of interest in Hitler's offer would hold off for the time being the long-threatened mass attack on the British Isles.

He explained that despite the war turmoil in France he had been able to communicate with United States officials most of the time, but not in the volume nor with the certainty and privacy necessary for the normal transaction of his duties.

He indicated he expected to return to France. He is going to Washington after stopping off at his brother Orville's home in Philadelphia.

Tae ambassador declined to discuss possible developments abroad, turning away, among other queries, the question: "Do you think England still has a chance?"

"That," he said, "is future, isn't it?"

He spoke freely, however, about what he had seen.

In German-occupied France, he said, "the French people have all the magnificent qualities they have always had."

Praises Pétain

He praised highly French Marshal Pétain for having done, despite his advanced age, "everything possible" to restore order in such disrupted fields as communications.

Bullitt's fellow-passengers included former Empress Zita of Austria and her daughter, the Archduchess Elizabeth, who had to leave their Belgian exile because of the war.

The empress and her daughter were met by two of her sons who had arrived in New York previously, and the party left by car for the Royalton, Mass., estate of Calvin Bullock. Wall street broke.

Zita, who is 48, said how long she would stay in the United States had not been decided, but that she hoped other members of her family still in Europe would be able to get over here.

Ambassador Bullitt declined to comment on Nazi infiltration in Spain reported by war refugees who arrived Thursday on the liner Manhattan. He said Spain was not in his "jurisdiction."

German Courtesies

Bullitt said he was treated "with the utmost respect and courtesy by the Germans when they marched into Paris."

The German commander General von Studin paid him an official call, he said, and on being reminded that there were many embassy and other buildings under Bullitt's protection, gave immediate orders that those things should not be molested."

The ambassador also praised highly the American women embassy attaches in Paris. Despite the imminence of bombing, he said, 20 of them asked special permission to stay at their posts.

Bullitt said he had stayed in Paris after the French government itself left "to see that the German occupation took place peacefully and with no bloodshed and no hostilities."

In Paris and elsewhere, he said, "I went any place I wanted without escorts of any kind" and with no unpleasantness.

The French soldier of 1940, he remarked, "was fully the equal of the soldier of 1914."

"Doubts Regime 'Fascist'?"

"I don't want to go into the mistakes that were made that produced the result we all know about," the ambassador said.

Bullitt said he left Vichy, where he went from Paris, before the present new government was formed, and did not know how the French people were reacting to it, but when a reporter described it as "fascist," he commented:

"I don't know that you are right to call the government fascist. Pétain enjoys the universal respect and confidence of the people. He has a tremendous reputation and is thoroughly honest and straightforward."

Empress Zita made no comment about European developments. A statement given out by her son, Archduke Otto's secretary in advance said in part:

"The empress is convinced of the victory of Freedom and Christianity over totalitarian barbarism. . . . She believes in a central European confederation of states, based on democratic principles, to be formed in the Danubian area after the defeat of nazism."

Tip on How to Find Birth Certificates

Madison—(P)—The best places to look for copies of birth certificates are city health departments or offices of county registers of deeds, the state bureau of vital statistics said today.

This helpful hint came from Francis E. Kerster, chief statistician, as the newly launched national defense measure for establishing citizenship status of industrial workers brought additional headaches to the state bureau.

Kerster said persons born in Wisconsin could, in most instances, procure copies of birth certificates from local sources with a minimum of difficulty.

Mark Founding Of Dairy Co-Op

3-Day Program Opens Today at Lake Mills, Birthplace of Scheme

Lake Mills—(P)—A three-day program opened here today commemorating the 100th anniversary of the founding of America's first dairy co-operative at Lake Mills.

The program includes an amateur show and dance today; an all-day concert Sunday by rural bands; a coast to coast broadcast over NBC's farm and home hour Monday morning, and addresses Monday by L. J. Tabor of Washington, national grange president; by Ralph Ammon, director of the state department of agriculture, and by Jasper G. Pickett, lineal descendant of Anne Pickett, founder of the first co-operative.

The commemoration is being sponsored by the state department of agriculture, the Wisconsin council of agriculture, and the Wisconsin college of agriculture.

Wisconsin's first dairy co-operative was born in 1840 after Armine and Anne Pickett and their three children migrated to the state from Ohio, bringing 10 cows with them.

It was Anne Pickett's idea they could combine the output of their cows with those of their neighbors and make cheese in her kitchen on a cooperative basis.

The neighbors were paid for their milk in cheese, and regularly one of them would travel to Milwaukee to trade the cheese for commodities needed in Lake Mills.

Since that beginning the cooperative movement has grown until Wisconsin now has more than 1,150.

Coakley Is Named Secretary to Heil

Madison—(P)—State Senator Maurice P. Coakley, of Beloit, who was named personal secretary to Governor Heil yesterday, has been appointed military secretary to the governor.

Although the military post nominally pays $1,200 a year, it was expected that Coakley would draw an annual salary of $5,000 as personal secretary—the same as his predecessor, William C. Maas, who resigned to run for the U. S. senate.

Coakley declined to comment on what disposition would be made of his senatorial salary, saying: "I have to talk that over with the governor when he comes back."

Beer Advertising Is Object of Complaint

Washington—(P)—The federal trade commission issued a complaint yesterday charging the Whitewater Brewing Co., and its manager, Alex Weingart, Whitewater, Wis., with misrepresentation in the sale of beer.

The commission in its complaint asserted certain advertising material featured a picture of a Badger, an outline of the state and the words "The Pride of Wisconsin."

Without words correctly disclosing the origin of the product, the commission said the advertising "has the tendency to cause the purchasing public to believe the beer is brewed in Wisconsin when it is brewed in Chicago."

Want Archery Season For Deer Lengthened

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Proposals for a reduction in the non-resident deer tag price for bow and arrow hunting, and an expansion of the archery season, will be referred to the 1941 legislature, state conservation officials decided, because it involves a change in the statutes.

The plan was submitted to the conservation commission recently by Marinette county interests who pointed out that it would aid the tourist areas of the state by making the tourist travel season extend later into the autumn months.

Wounded Bank Bandit Caught, Another Flees

More Than Score of Shots Fired; 150 Take Part in Chase

Marysville, Kans.—(P)—A chase by 150 citizens, in which more than 20 shots were fired, ended with the wounding and capture of one of two escaped convicts in a church a few hours after they had robbed the Diller, Neb., State bank of $5,000.

The wounded bandit's companion escaped. He kidnapped two persons and commandeered two automobiles in his panic-stricken flight.

The captured man, Lowell Haenzel, 27, of Sleepy Eye, Minn., told Tom Blodgett, city marshal, that he escaped with two companions from the Fort Madison, Iowa, penitentiary June 22. His fellow fugitives are Ivan Sullivan, 29, Trenton, Mo. and Forrest Estes, 35, Mountain Home, Ark.

Haenzel refused to name his companion who escaped. Leo Schramm, assistant city marshal, said he admitted, however, that he participated in the Diller bank robbery. He had $1,800 in his pockets. A suitcase abandoned by the bandits was said by Blodgett to contain a "large amount of currency" believed to have been taken in the Diller hold-up.

Flee Through Crowd

The two robbers were surprised by Blodgett and Howard Heleker, deputy sheriff, at a bus depot. They fled through a crowd of shoppers, exchanging shots with the officers.

Haenzel ran into the Christian church through a basement entrance and was cornered in a Sunday school room.

Schramm shouted to Haenzel to surrender but the bandit shook his head and leveled his revolver. Before he could fire, Schramm fired twice, the bullets striking Haenzel in both legs.

Haenzel's companion abducted Elmer Anderson, garage operator, and forced him at the point of two revolvers to drive through the town at high speed.

Anderson slowed down at a stop sign, wrenched the door open and rolled out. The bandit took the wheel and drove off. A tire went flat 11 miles southeast of town.

The robber then abandoned the machine and forced Francis Messick, 42-year-old farmer to get out of his car and the two drove away together.

At Blaine, Kans., state highway patrolmen sighted the bandit's car but the robber evaded capture by driving off a side road into timber until darkness came. He then drove to Westmoreland, 60 miles south of here, and released Messick unharmed.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

Political Impossibilities

Chicago—In both party conventions this year it has been difficult until the very end to perceive how much the course of events in the outer world was determining the final result of the proceeding. Until Thursday at Philadelphia and until Thursday at Chicago an observer might have thought that the moods and maneuvers of factions and of politicians were still as significant as they have been in so many other political conventions.

In fact, both conventions were dominated by the historic events which are shaking the world and both conventions were driven by these events to doing what would ordinarily have been regarded as politically impossible.

Under the ordinary rules of politics it was inconceivable that the Republican party would nominate for president a candidate who had just joined the party, had never held office under the party, and had never participated in party affairs.

Such a thing has never happened before in the history of American party politics. It would not have happened this year if total war had not begun a month before the convention and if Hitler had not conquered France before the party met in Philadelphia. Wendell Willkie was nominated because all the other Republican candidates had misjudged the course of events, because he alone seemed ready to deal with them. When the convention met at Philadelphia, the choice was between the nomination of Willkie and the disintegration of the Republican party under the impact of events. Mr. Willkie was chosen because he had to be.

Resentment, but no Opposition to Roosevelt

The nomination of Roosevelt for a third term was under ordinary circumstances no less impossible. It may be that a president in office could by the exercise of patronage compel his party to renounce him for a third term. But what he could not do by the exercise of patronage is to get himself renominated without serious opposition. Now the plain truth of the matter is that there was no serious opposition to the Roosevelt nomination, no open resistance on principle and only a little desultory and half-hearted opposition in fact. There was some resentment; there were misgivings; there was a certain amount of covert maneuvering which expressed itself in a dispute over the platform, and there was a minor explosion over the vice presidency. But unless there were developments which were not visible to me here in Chicago, there is a less formidable opposition within the party to Roosevelt's third nomination than there was to his second.

The reason is evident. Just as the Republicans had only Willkie, so the Democrats had only Roosevelt. There was no other Democrat available who was prepared for the situation in which the country finds itself; had there been such a candidate available, he would at least have been brought forward. The fact is that Roosevelt was renominated and the third term tradition was broken because no other Democrat emerged into public view with the necessary qualifications needed in the extraordinary circumstances of the time.

Nominees Only Men Available For Big Job

We should be deceiving ourselves, I believe, and misrepresenting the facts if we sought to explain either nomination by describing the political strategy and the showmanship which were employed in achieving it. That would be partisan blindness. Only the democratic partisan will pretend that Mr. Willkie was nominated because large financial interests were for him and because many telegrams were sent and because his campaign was conducted so brilliantly; Mr. Willkie was nominated because in his party he was uniquely qualified in the midst of an extraordinary situation.

Both Mr. Willkie and Mr. Roosevelt were nominated because they were the men who most obviously and clearly represented the profound sense of the American people that they are facing one of the very greatest crises in their history. All other considerations became unimportant, and that is why both conventions did such inconceivable and impossible things.

Wants U. S. to Leave Europe's Affairs Alone

A plea for nonintervention in Europe's affairs and strict attention to America's problems, both economic and defensive, was made by Walter Melchior, Appleton, in a talk at Peshtigo last night. Melchior, candidate for congress from the eighth district, talked to a joint meeting of Peshtigo labor unions.

Aviation Lab Is Sought by Madison Group

Location There Would Be Safer, Is Claim; Milwaukee Has Offer

Madison—(P)—Asserting that the European war has proved that large cities are the "first to undergo bombardment," the Madison and Wisconsin foundation today urged the national advisory committee for aeronautics at Washington to locate the proposed $8,400,000 aviation research laboratory here instead of Milwaukee.

In a letter to the committee, the foundation, local business and professional group, declared that Madison would be a safer location, saying:

"It has been strongly urged that American aviation facilities should now be more widely scattered and located as much as possible in the smaller and outlying communities, rather than in the larger cities which would probably be the first to undergo bombardment when and if this country is invaded by air. Particularly is this fact cited in connection with the several large cities located in our vital steel producing area of the Great Lakes."

The letter was accompanied by volumes of information regarding the city's industrial facilities and proximity to machinery producing centers.

Governor Heil said earlier this week, however, that he preferred Milwaukee for the site because it was a highly developed industrial area in which many skilled workmen were available. The governor added, however, that he would take a "neutral" stand on the location of national guard air squadrons which has indicated would be located at Madison, Oshkosh and Lakeshore and northern points. Approximately $1,700,000 of federal funds will be used for this construction, Immedi said.

Milwaukee—(P)—Contingent upon the establishment of an $8,000,000 aircraft engine research laboratory in Milwaukee, the county board yesterday offered the federal government 100 acres of land adjacent to the county airport for $1 an acre.

A group of county officials conferred with government heads in Washington last week and pointed out Milwaukee's advantages as a national defense program center.

Madison—(P)—Claims by some commercial fishing spokesmen who oppose the new and stricter regulations of fishing operations in Green Bay and Lake Michigan that fishermen are being forced on the relief roll are being circulated in order to discredit the conservation commission's efforts to conserve the Great Lakes fish supply, according to W. J. P. Aberg, Madison member of the commission.

Aberg commented on reports that Two Rivers fishermen have applied for relief as the result of a new order increasing mesh size of nets allowed for fishing in Green Bay and Lake Michigan waters.

"Lake Michigan fishing has returned to normal again except at Two Rivers," he commented. "They are trying to discredit the order at Two Rivers by tying up their equipment and having everyone who has ever touched a gill net apply for relief."

Steidl Warns Against Driving With One Arm

A warning to motorists to keep their left arms inside their cars while driving was issued by Captain Charles Steidl of the Outagamie county police today. Driving with the left arm on the bracketed on the window sill of the car is considered one-armed driving and is against the law, he warned.

Steidl said he had seen many motorists driving with one arm, and that it was a dangerous habit.

Hard Times for Reich Even if Hitler Is Victor

Nazi Leader Has Every Reason to Hope for Peace—on His Own Terms

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE New York—(P)—Hitler's peace speech leaves the situation just where it was, unless the British government sues for terms—something which Premier Churchill less than a week ago declared never would happen.

This being the case, Europe must endure a conflict which, as Hitler says, "can end only with the complete annihilation of one or the other of the two adversaries."

Well, that's what this war started out to be—a fight to a finish between Germany and England—and that's likely to be the way it winds up.

The Nazi chieftain says he knows that this "will bring upon the people unending suffering and misery" but that he has relieved his "conscience towards the things that will then come—that is, if this last appeal to reason is unheeded by England."

The reichstag speech also was intended as a tonic for the German people. Win or lose, I think they heave hard times ahead of them.

Does Hitler Want Peace? But beside this, I can't escape the feeling that Hitler would give much if he could obtain peace at this time. Of course, it would be on his terms, but he could afford to make heavy concessions to Britain if he could keep his present conquests without having to fight further to hold them.

He says he is going to win, and he certainly has a right to a great degree of confidence. The odds perhaps are in his favor.

In undertaking to invade England (if he does) he will be essaying a feat which would appall the average military leader. He is, as Prime Minister Churchill has said, coming up against a much bigger opposition than he has heretofore encountered on the battlefield. Some neutral observers concede Britain a fighting chance to win.

Herr Hitler knows that if he doesn't defeat his enemy quickly, and the war is drawn out, Germany stands a big chance to lose because of severance from essential supplies by the British blockade. In any event the coming winter promises terrible suffering for all Europe. At this moment experts are predicting famine and the disease which always accompanies it.

Crops On Airports I was much struck this morning by a little item from Washington. An economic report received from Germany by the commerce department says potatoes, grain and other commodities are being grown on military airports, especially in corners and sides which can be spared from war purposes.

Of course, this doesn't mean that Germany is hungry already. It is an exhibition of German efficiency. Still, such extreme measures bespeak a fear of the future. Over Germany, as well as the rest of the continent, hangs the threat of a hunger which overtook the reich in the World war and forced its surrender.

All in all, there is ample reason why Herr Hitler should be happy if England asked for peace now. It was worthwhile to invite Churchill to make terms, even if the chances of his acceptance were small.

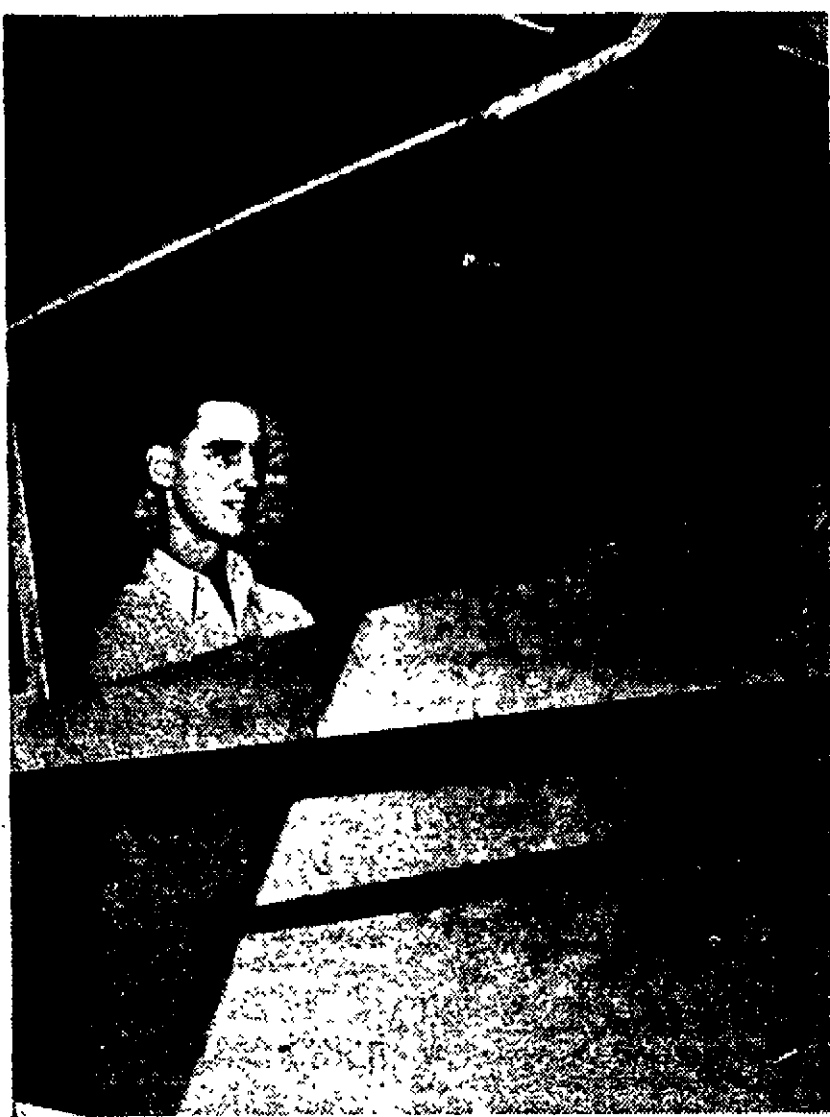

44 CCC Camps Operate in State

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau Washington—Forty-four Civilian Conservation Corps camps are scheduled for operation in Wisconsin during the first three months of the current fiscal year beginning July 1, 1940, James J. McEntee, director of the CCC, announced today.

"The program provides for the employment of 5,200 Wisconsin young men and 646 war veterans in CCC camps," Mr. McEntee said, and an additional 2,954 men from other states to carry on the CCC conservation program in Wisconsin.

Of the 8,800 men employed in Wisconsin, 4,800 will work on forest improvement, protection and development, 2,800 on erosion control projects on agricultural lands, 200 on wild life projects, 400 in county parks and 800 in state parks.

"Better training opportunities are now available in the CCC than at any previous time during the seven years it has been in operation," Mr. McEntee stated.

Mink Farms, Fish Hatcheries Are Markets for Canned Carp

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Some state conservation department officials are speculating upon the possibility that one of the department's most important programs, carp removal, may ultimately become self-supporting through sales of canned carp.

Nearly half a million pounds of carp in tin cans was turned out at the Madison canning plant during the last year, according to Robert Gray, superintendent of rough fish removal operations, and stores are low almost exhausted.

Meanwhile the market is improving, with orders piling up from furriers who have begun to use the product for feeding mink. It is said that carp in the diet of the animals adds a special luster to the fur.

Main outlet for the canned carp, however, remains the state fish hatchery system. Thousands of pounds are sent to the 36 state hatcheries for feeding game fish, which are propagated there.

Some experiments have been undertaken recently to explore other potential commercial possibilities in the carp program. There have been suggestions that the state canning plant could market the product as dog and cat food, while the possibility that commercial fertilizers could be manufactured has also been studied.

State Employees List Demands

1941 Legislature to Be Confronted With Association Program

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—A legislative program of organized state government employees which will be put before the 1941 legislature, including demands for a constitutional protection for the civil service principle and pensions, was made public here today.

The program observes that "in the light of the threat to civil service in the legislature of 1939, civil service should be put into the constitution of the state so that it cannot be repealed or weakened to the extent that it would be ineffective."

The Wisconsin State Employees association, author of the program, also put up two alternative proposals for a retirement system. The unit will support either a state pension system for state personnel, or an amendment of the federal social security act to include state government service, it was said.

Other points listed included demands for 30-days notice before layoffs, and a legal requirement that the governor appoint the state director of personnel within 30 days after three names of eligible candidates are submitted to him by the state board of personnel.

(Governor Heil since he has been elected has declined to make a

State Considers Request to Place Old 41 on System

The state highway commission is considering an application of Outagamie county to place old Highway 41 from Meade street, Appleton, to McCarty's crossing, east of Kaukauna.

The highway now is part of the county trunk system and is maintained by the county.

The state highway commission has taken approximately 50 miles of county trunk roads into the state highway system but no action has been taken on Outagamie county's application.

The additions were made in Winnebago, Fond du Lac, Vernon, Richland and Washington counties, according to E. L. Roettiger, commission engineer. The additions were made under a state law which states that the commission may include in the state system those roads that have a daily traffic count of 250 or more vehicles.

permanent appointment to the post which was vacated by Alvah H. Garey two years ago. A. J. Opted is present acting director.

The association's program also calls for a 44-hour week and "systematic salary increases," and a "revision of the travel allowance system of the state."

The association recently elected Harold Springer, an employee of the Mendota state hospital, as president. The unit is an AFL affiliate.

Interesting Fact About Appleton

The battle at Little Lake Butte des Morts in 1722, in which the Fox Indians suffered disastrous defeat, had its antecedents in the tribe's practice of extracting tribute from the French when they traveled the Fox-Wisconsin river route.

In 1716, a punitive expedition was sent out by the French government, disguised as a trading expedition. Six hundred Menominee Indians joined it at the mouth of the Fox river and in June of that year they landed at Grand Kalalin, now Kaukauna, where they left their canoes for the woods.

They attacked the Fox fort at Little Lake Butte des Morts, defended by 500 warriors and 3,000 women. The French and Menominees were victorious after a long battle. The Fox agreed to disciplinary provisions and to pay the cost of the expedition with beaver skins, but by 1728 the tribe was again annoying the French government.

In 1728, the Foxes escaped from a French force, assisted by Ottawas and Hurons, but in the next year the fateful battle came.

A French leader by the name of Marin, with his men disguised as boatmen, rowed up the river to Little Lake Butte des Morts.

When they came abreast of the main body of Fox Indians, who were celebrating, coverings were lifted off what was supposedly cargo to reveal 150 soldiers. The soldiers fired, inflicting heavy losses on the Indians, who fled to the village.

When they arrived, they found the fort had been set on fire. They retreated towards the woods, ran into the French reserves, and were practically annihilated. Only five families and a few braves who were absent escaped. The remnants of the tribe gathered the remains

Showers Due Tonight; 98 High Friday

Local Man Overcome By Heat; Wave Hangs On Over Middle West

Continued showers and thunderstorms tonight will protect this vicinity in some measure from the heat wave which still prevails in midwestern areas, the weatherman reported today.

With yesterday the hottest of the year, an Appleton resident, Edward Cooney, 37, 524 W. Lawrence street, was overcome by the heat while mixing cement on a State street job. After first aid he was removed by ambulance to St. Elizabeth's hospital, where today he was reported recovered.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the mercury hit its peak, 98 degrees, according to records at the power plant of Wisconsin Michigan Power company. The low mark for the 24-hour period preceding 9 o'clock this morning was 73 degrees at 8:45 this morning. The thermometer then began to climb, with 80 degrees registered at noon atop the Post-Crescent building.

Deaths Reported

The hottest weather of the year scorched the mid-west and large areas of the east today, bringing the inevitable heat wave death toll.

Eleven fatalities were reported, five of them drownings and six attributed to the heat. There were three drownings in Minnesota, two in Pennsylvania.

There were two heat deaths in New York state and one each in Nebraska, South Dakota, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Forecaster A. J. Knarr said there was little likelihood of relief before Monday. The heat wave has blistered Nebraska and other mid-west areas for four days and spread into Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York yesterday.

Temperatures of 100 or higher were due again today in Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Iowa; Chicago expected 95, with corresponding readings from here eastward. Only far northern Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota were comparatively cool after local showers.

Milwaukee, Wis., had 93, hottest of the year. Indianapolis had 92, only two degrees under this season's high.

Highest and lowest temperatures during the past 24 hours as reported by official weather bureau stations were Phoenix and Sioux City 104; Yellowstone 50.

The Weather

Comstocks are Vacationing At Glacier National Park

New London — Folks from New London are scattered all over the United States this week as the vacation season gets under full swing.

Exploring and photographing the sights and wonders of Glacier National park again this year are Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Comstock. They left early this month for an indefinite period.

Miss Marion Cahill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cahill, 501 E. Beacon avenue, is sight-seeing throughout the west with her sister, Miss Esther Cahill of Pierre, S. D., and three other girls from that region. After a 3-week's tramp tour of the west, Miss Cahill is expected to return home by the end of next week.

Touring the east coast together are the Misses Helen, Cecilia and Rose Knapstein who left a week ago on a 3-week's trip to New York City, the World's fair, Lake Placid, and a bit of Canada and intervening states enroute.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Krueger, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kahnt of Hortonville, will leave Monday for a week's outing in northern Wisconsin. The Kahnts will return after the first week while the Kruegers will continue a tour of upper Michigan the second week.

Leaving on vacation today are Mr. and Mrs. James Graham and James, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Herb Shaw who will camp together next week at Maiden Lake near Mountaint, Wis.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Ray Schimke and family and Clifford Schimke will leave for a week's outing at Lake Buckatobin at Conover, Wis.

Miss Eunice Konrad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Konrad, will leave this weekend in company with a group of girls from Appleton to vacation next week at Waupaca Chain o' Lakes.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Len Buchholz are the latter's sisters, Mrs. David Cleveland and Mrs. Arthur Behling, who were called here by the serious illness of their father, Theodore Prill, route 1, Clintonville, who is a patient at Community hospital.

Bordens Down Shawano Club

All Stars Pile Up 17 Runs to 3 for Visiting Indians

New London — The mosquitoes lasted nine innings last night but the King's Bar softball team of Shawano lasted only five and the Bordens All Stars cleaned up 17 to 3 in a closing 3-inning slugfest under the lights at the city ball park.

Clarence Hedtke, 1-armed pitcher for the Indians, held Bordens to one hit and no runs for five innings, then blew up completely, his support failing also. The visitors led 1 to 0 until the fifth when Bordens scored three runs. They tallied six in the next frame on two hits and eight in the next on four hits. Ike Poepeke topped off the performance with a home run with two men on the sacks.

Len Hoffman pitched seven scattered hits to the Shawano team.

Next Tuesday evening the All Stars will travel to Murphy's Corners.

Music Instructor Resigns Position

New London — The resignation of Miss Mary K. Donohue, instructor and director of vocal music at New London High school and grade schools the last three years, was accepted by the board of education at a meeting last night. She was the first full time vocal instructor in New London. Miss Donohue will be married at her home town of Antigo next Saturday, July 27.

Applications for the position of science instructor at Washington High school to replace the Rev. F. S. Dayton, resigned, also were considered.

20 High School Girls Hold Picnic at Park

New London — With the mercury soaring to over 90 above in the shade, 20 high school girls made the most of it with a mass picnic at Hatten park yesterday afternoon and evening. Activities began with tennis and swimming in the park pool, followed by a picnic on the grounds and dancing by portable radio in the shelter house. The group attended the theater in the evening.

Miss Shirley Rudnick of Chicago, who is visiting her cousin, Doris Markman, here for several weeks, was a guest of the group. In the party were Miss Markman, Ann Freiburger, Marion Wainer, Phyllis Morien, Alice Davy, Dolores Brault, Joyce Herres, Theodora Herres, Marcella Dernbach, Shirley Radtke, Geraldine McPeak, Damaris Stein, Marguerite Gehrke, Jean Masted, Jane Knapstein, Evelyn Knapstein, Phyllis Jagoditsch, Anna Mae Jagoditsch, Barbara VanAlstine and Millicent Blissett.

Conscription Will be Issue In Campaigns

Use of War Crisis in Speech Will Bring in Draft Issue—Lawrence

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Everything that President Roosevelt said about the seriousness of the world crisis and the importance of America as a bulwark of democracy can be agreed to by Republicans and Democrats alike without finding an answer to the biggest question propounded by President Roosevelt's acceptance of a third term of nomination. That question is: Does the United States contain any other men capable of leadership along the lines of policy outlined by the president?

If only one man is capable then the country will be in a sorry plight when the end of a third term comes. For the crises that lie ahead will be as great as those of today. The whole trend of world affairs has been changed and will not be crystallized into an equilibrium for many years to come.

If Mr. Roosevelt had made a plain request for a third term on the ground that he did not believe the Republican party would maintain his domestic policies, he would have been on far better and more understandable ground.

The reaction here to the president's address is one of mixed emotions. Obviously the president states accurately the condition of world affairs and the need for American restraint and yet alertness to protect democracy. But can the job be done by an administration which in the face of Germany's remarkable use of the airplane has failed to provide America with an adequate air defense?

These are the questions which will be debated along with conscription. "Draft Roosevelt and he will draft you" were the words of a slogan in a Chicago newspaper after the nomination was made. It means that the New Deal which has been depending on the solid vote of the low-income groups may lose millions of them because the fear of the draft is greater than the satisfaction over so-called social gains.

Unhappily the opposition to the administration will make use of conscription as a partisan issue because the president has ventured to employ the whole war crisis as the basis for requesting a third term for the New Deal itself. Had his address of acceptance been confined only to the foreign situation, it would have been less vulnerable. But the president showed clearly that domestic issues are on his mind, too, and that he wants to remain in power so he can continue to deny to the business and industry of the country the rights they have been losing under the New Deal.

The president has taken no action for example with reference to the executive agencies and commissions where a fair hearing and a fair trial is repeatedly denied the citizen. He has done nothing to bring about the passage of amendments to the labor law nor has he made any comment about the conspicuous disregard of citizens' rights which his appointees on the supreme court have been perpetrating. Mr. Roosevelt didn't hesitate to comment on the work of supreme court justices before and he will not restore respect for the highest court in the land till he takes up the cudgels for the citizens who no longer can rely on an impartial court.

Mr. Roosevelt's appeal for a third term is regarded by the Republicans as furnishing a simple issue, but they are mistaken if they believe the administration will fight the battle on that ground. There will be no such clear-cut handling of the campaign. The New Deal plans to carry on exactly a class warfare of the kind of campaign which it conducted in 1936.

Line Up Labor The effort, of course, is to line up labor and the farmer and to ignore the middle class altogether. That's where the mistake in strategy begins. For the president's method of securing the third term nomination will be much better understood and resented by the middle class than by any other. The fact that the president permitted his cabinet officers and lieutenants to line up delegations for him this last year while discouraging the candidacy of everybody else is too widely known to be forgotten.

Two good things the Democrats did at Chicago, one was the writing of a liberal platform—even though it did contain unjust and inaccurate innuendoes about their opponents—and the other was the nomination of Henry Wallace for vice president. He is an honest public servant and if some day fate should make him president he is easily the best of all the New Dealers.

Ladies Aid Society Plans Lawn Party At Sutton Cottage

Royalton—The July Circle of the Ladies Aid society, consisting of Mrs. Gus Sutton, Mrs. Josephine Clevinger and Mrs. James Christensen will be hostesses at a lawn party at the Sutton cottage on the Wolf river Saturday evening.

The August committee, composed of Mrs. Francis Dean, Mrs. Will Van Ornum and Mrs. Viola Casey, will sponsor a rummage sale during August, at the Grange hall.

A lawn party was given at the home of Donald and Carol Casey Thursday evening, by the Delta Alpha Sunday School class. Twenty-six members were present.

Morgan and Floyd Van Ornum started Thursday to paint the Congregational church.

The Royalton Community Grange at its meeting Wednesday evening decided to sponsor a membership drive. The committee in charge includes Carroll Ritchie, F. B. Larson, Mrs. Will Feathers and Mrs. A. W. Ritchie.

The lunch committee for Aug. 7 includes Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Larson and William Craig.

Mrs. Frank Starr and daughter Ruth of Los Angeles Calif., are expected the latter part of the week for a short visit here with relatives.

A daughter was born Friday to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Redmann.

Mrs. Josephine Clevinger is having a new barn built to replace the one burned on her farm on Highway 54.

Arthur Sullivan is receiving a visit from his brother-in-law, Lynn Kingsley of Mott, N. D.

Morgan Bachus, Kenneth Pahl, Gerald Rohan, Ted Wilson and Gordon Loss left Tuesday by auto for a sight seeing tour and a visit with relatives at Seattle, Wash.

Visitors in the Sam Peterson home at Osterander during the week were Mr. and Mrs. J. Nielson of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Rasmus Anderson of Green Bay and Mr. and Mrs. Halvorson of Manitowoc.

The boys of the Wisdom Ridge 4-H club met at the Walter Thompson home Wednesday evening.

Technocrats Study Design for Housing

How standardization will dominate all fields of endeavor was explained during a study course for members of the Appleton section of Technocracy, Inc. last night at 130 E. College avenue.

The group studied the tentative design of agriculture and housing under Technocracy. H. H. Redlin, education chairman, was in charge of the meeting.

31 Children in Foster Homes

Children's Board of County Meets at Clintonville Hall

Clintonville—According to a report given at the monthly meeting of the county children's board of Waupaca county at the Clintonville city hall this week, there are 31 children being cared for in foster homes in this county. Of this number, 21 are under 14 years of age and 14 are over it.

Those who attended the board meeting were: Clarence Zachow, Clintonville, chairman; Mrs. Lawrence Corry, Weyauwega, secretary; Mrs. S. W. Johnson, Waupaca, Mrs. F. J. Pfeiffer, New London, Judge A. M. Scheller, Waupaca, Mrs. Harriet Loomis, field worker of the child welfare department, Madison, and Miss Esther M. Fiolat, county children's worker.

The group discussed plans for a "child welfare" booth at the Waupaca county fair. Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Corry were appointed to assist Miss Fiolat in making the necessary arrangements. The next regular meeting of the board will be held in New London on Aug. 26.

A maternal and child health center will be held at the city hall here Friday, July 26. Registration hours are from 8:30 to 11:30 in the morning and from 1 o'clock to 3:30 in the afternoon. Dr. Mary Allen, Green Bay, of the state health department, will offer free examinations and advice for infants and children up to six years old, who are accompanied by their parents.

William Reek, 66, of 58 Pearl street, is confined to St. Elizabeth hospital, Appleton, with a fractured hip and bruises received when he fell from a load of hay Thursday afternoon. He was helping at the home of his son near Marion when the accident occurred.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kahl and daughter, Irene, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kahl and little niece, Margaret Mary Kahl, went to Ft. Atkinson Saturday, for a weekend visit with relatives. The former will remain to spend two weeks there and at Milwaukee.

Mrs. Roy Martin, Miss Mary Jane Spearbraker and Miss Marjorie Stieg are spending Saturday and Sunday in Madison with Robert and Hope Martin. From there they will go to Milwaukee for a few days visit with relatives. Mrs. Martin will be accompanied home by her mother, Mrs. Mary Durant of Milwaukee.

Wesley Thies and Robert Tesar are spending the weekend in Milwaukee.

Governor Jones Miracle-Worker Of Louisiana, Pegler Claims

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Chicago—While the Democrats have been mocking the spirit of democracy under the social auspices of the politico-underworld local branch of the party of humanity, a miracle-worker has been surveying the proceedings with a cold and knowing eye. We have had in our midst here this week Sam Houston Jones, the man who beat Huey Long's brother, Earl, for the governorship of Louisiana and whose first legislature has just repealed most of the worst of the late Huey's dictatorial laws. The notorious Louisiana highway police have been reorganized and deprived of the powers by which Huey converted them into a state O.G.P.U. The Kidnapping, or Cossack law, which permitted this band of thugs to arrest a citizen and hold him in a jail far from his home for an indefinite term, beyond the power of any court, has been repealed, along with Huey's law whereby the Kingfish could buy votes at the rate of $9 each, sufficient to beat the opposition in any doubtful precinct, and charge the cost to his political opponents.

Huey's National Guard law, pushed through one of the many special sessions of the gang of menials which served as a legislature, also has been wiped off the books, and the state troops now may be called out only in the presence of a legitimate emergency. Huey's law permitted him to call up the soldiers at will, although he was not a state officer but a United States senator, merely by ordering his governor to sound the alarm.

He thus had a standing army to serve his political purposes with equipment furnished by the United States government. He called out the soldiers on one occasion to intimidate his political opposition at the state capital in Baton Rouge and mounted a machine gun in front of a local hotel.

Another time Huey ordered his adjutant general to proceed with a force of men to the office of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, the paper which eventually destroyed the surviving power of his crooked and ruthless dictatorship, seize the plant and install an officer as editor because he was displeased with an editorial. Huey was drunk at the time, and some of his subordinates shut him in the bathroom of his hotel quarters, doused his head in cold water and talked him out of his intention.

Law to Call Soldiers Most Dangerous Innovation

The law which permitted him to call the soldiers into service for the suppression of American liberties, including their own, of course, was probably the most dangerous of all innovations, and it may be noted that at no time during Huey's reign or after did any of the bleeding heart New Dealers, who were so sensitive about the civil liberties of the C. I. O. communists in Jersey City, express any interest in the civil liberties of the Louisiana people.

Under Governor Jones' urging, although he had only a minority of the lower house of the legislature, about 70 of the dictatorial laws have been repealed and, of almost equal importance, 176 state commissions and boards, which Huey established to provide thousands of mock or nominal jobs for members of his gang, have been consolidated into 20 or abolished. The governor reports that the survivors of the gang in the legislature have surrendered, so to speak, to a new public opinion in the state, and that even Huey's crooked judges and state legal officers have shown a tendency to turn square.

The reorganization and reform of the courts and the prosecuting machinery give hope that in time it will be possible to carry out successful prosecutions in the state courts of thieves who robbed the state of millions of dollars in oil rights and royalties, and to recover the stealings of these and other criminals of many varieties who prospered under Huey and Dick Leche, the convict ex-governor.

Federal Collector Induced to Resign

Rufus Fontenot, the federal collector of internal revenue, was induced to resign and accept a parallel office in the state government, to which he will bring the intimate knowledge of stealing and cheating and the methods by which these crimes were done, so that the state may collect its own share of taxes and prosecute the crooks intelligently.

The new highway commissioner has beaten down the fixed, conspiratorial prices of gravel from 90 cents a yard to 35 cents, and of shell for paving from $2 to $1.11, and many parasites have been shaken out of this department, which

Ladies Aid Society Meets at Leeman

Leeman—The meeting of the Ladies Aid society of the Congregational church met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Martin Olson. Hymns were sung with scripture reading and prayer by the members, followed by a short business session. A 5 o'clock supper was served.

A 4-H club meeting was held Tuesday evening at the Malcolm Leeman home. Miss Nelda Leeman, president, was in charge of the program.

William Schinke, who has been a patient at a veterans' hospital near Milwaukee for the last few weeks, has returned home.

was the haven of some of the lowest types of grafters.

The reforms have proceeded quietly, although quickly. Publicity must right its way out of Louisiana in the best of times, and in times such as these the clang of national politics and world affairs draws out good news from down yonder. They are important basic reforms, but other reforms and retribution seem to be on the way.

Governor Jones of Louisiana says he has no political ambitions beyond the four years of his governorship, in which he cannot succeed himself. Although, he has given Louisiana the greatest public service that any state has enjoyed in this time, he says public service is out of his line.

The Cup Is Filled With Hemlock

All voters should read the plea of our president in justification of his savage assault upon American institutions. It is a pitiful document.

Nothing of its kind was ever written before. If America is to endure nothing so dishonorable will ever be written again. Mr. Roosevelt has always been a sort of John Barrymore—that is a consummate actor. And now he moves into the highest form of acting which appears like the manifestations of an hysterical but is not. For an hysterical is one of the cleverest persons in covering up. So the President will not participate actively in the campaign. He will wrap himself in the flag to conceal his true purposes.

He prays the people's help in the heavy work of defending them from all possible aggressors. He must stay at Washington, or close at hand, so he may rush down and look over the plans to see that the guns will shoot. If there is one sure way of having a sound defense it is to be certain that Mr. Roosevelt, and every other visionary, is excluded from the right to direct it. No greater good could be done to this country than to make its defensive plans effective. This is no joking matter and Quoddy specialists need not apply.

Are the American people really going to swallow this sickening, nauseating concoction of the draft, planned more carefully for the purpose of misguiding them than John Barrymore ever planned a skit on the screen?

Let us, indeed, have a real draft. In a draft we don't pick blind men for sharpshooters. We don't select company commanders on speeches written by Madam the Perk or Harry the Hop. No draft board that ever served in a backwoods country would select Mr. Roosevelt in a critical time to rule upon the critical plans of defense for a great nation.

Mr. Roosevelt's story, his lame and shambling excuse for wrecking the traditions of this country to satisfy his limitless ambition, is so petty and threadbare and untrue that it will deceive only those who get a thrill, a joy, out of being hoodwinked.

The direct untruth in Mr. Roosevelt's statement has to do with his purported intention of retiring which was changed by the hideous appearance of war last September. He conceals the truth, and it seems to us he must conceal it deliberately. He had no purpose, even long before the war, of ever retiring or in any manner recognizing the great American tradition. He studiously avoided every effort of reporters ever since he entered upon his second term to advance an opinion about a third term. When resolutions were introduced in congress as much as two years ago to put that body on record against a third term Mr. Roosevelt smothered those resolutions with his power over the senate.

His determination to pretend that he did not want the presidency, that he was weary of office and the sweets of power, and that nothing but the demand of the public could induce him to plod upon the tiresome course, is denounced as palpably untrue by the record and the entire course of his public career.

His greedy bid for a continuation of power is built upon the conviction among him and his associates that a majority of the American people can be deceived and emotionalized as effectively as ten-year-old youngsters.

And now he wants a campaign where he won't have to stand up to his opponent and face the Niagara of truth that is due to come down upon him.

What has America ever done that in a critical time it should have this unfit and congenitally untruthful man attempting to demolish the pillars upon which the nation is constructed?

Who Gets the Tavern License?

Our legislature wrote a law prohibiting the granting of more than one license "for each 500 inhabitants or fraction thereof, except that if a greater number of such licenses have been granted" in any city at the time the law went into effect such city "may grant and issue such licenses equal in number to those granted, issued and in force on the taking effect" of the new law.

There isn't anything very unusual about this particular law except that it has raised in sharp form some questions, the answer to which has occasioned prolonged argument. But knotty problems cannot always be foreseen until a law is given the acid test of practice.

Cases have arisen which suggest the question whether the right to the license belongs to the individual, the property he may rent or to neither. May a tenant take the privilege of a renewal with him when he moves, does it belong to the new tenant, or does it belong to no one? And if it belongs to no one what shall the council do, try to weigh the equities in each case in a hurried manner and so do "justice" or set up rules to guide itself as a supplement to the law itself?

Assuming that the council is absolute master in the matter, since it certainly may withhold licenses in its discretion, wouldn't it be beneficial in arriving at that tranquility that all business demands, to adopt a policy governing the various contingencies subject always, of course, to the right of the council to discontinue entirely the particular license involved?

The Judge Disposes of Moe

Judge Wilkerson at Chicago disposed of Moe Annenberg's plea for parole with a curt denial. The alternative plea for a six week's delay to permit of certain operations before beginning his term was denied as summarily.

It is not unlikely that the physicians who examined Mr. Annenberg and reported to the court stated his condition accurately. In any man past his sixtieth birthday the degenerative processes of age have made headway. And therefore something of a presentable case could be made concerning the desirability of seeking the more restful atmosphere of a hospital to the dulled surroundings of a prison.

The judge did not even take time to explain that if Mr. Annenberg needs an operation he can have it in prison. He did not take the time to add that if Mr. Annenberg needs medical treatment he can obtain it in a prison hospital. All know that facilities for the treatment of those sentenced to our penitentiaries, are in many instances better than those afforded to men on their own.

There is nothing pleasant in seeing a man like Mr. Annenberg fall from his high estate. But he fell. And the public was certainly not to blame.

The principal question presented in a case like his is whether the judiciary is also going to fall from its high estate, wobble and weep, and weaken its already merciful sentence.

If a multi-millionaire, with so little just excuse to commit offenses to which others may be driven by desperation is shown special favors it is not inappropriate to say that we might as well abandon our system of criminal justice entirely and let every man rely upon his own shotgun for the protection of his rights.

The Governor and the Reds

In recent pronouncements upon the subject of communism in Wisconsin Governor Heil has followed his usual policy of uttering the first thoughts which flow through his head. But he has not spoken as is befitting the executive head of a state.

Commenting upon the ducking of two Communists in the water at Rice Lake when they attempted to make speeches, Mr. Heil declared that he hoped Communists, "no matter where they go, get the same kind of a reception they got at Rice Lake," he concluded. "I'm just a plain American citizen and I'm real proud to see that we have some good red-blooded citizens up there at Rice Lake."

That is just where the governor made his mistake. He probably wanted to say just the thing a lot of plain American citizens would have said on first impulse, but when Mr. Heil took his oath of office he swore to uphold the constitutions of the United States and of Wisconsin, both of which guarantee to all citizens certain rights. When he took that oath he became more than a plain citizen, he became the highest official in the state clothed with all the responsibilities his office entails and above all the responsibility to see that civilian rights are not curtailed.

On first impulse most people would probably applaud the citizens at Rice Lake. The incident has more of humor than anything else and the bums needed the water anyway.

But the distinction between the position of a governor and a plain citizen is so clear that even Mr. Heil should see it.

Cabbage on a Sight-Seeing Trip

Farmers down around Racine should not become so tart and snappy because the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation has imported a carload of Virginia cabbage to feed those on relief in the second most important cabbage state in the union.

What if this food was carried 800 miles? Will that not likely make it necessary to carry the Wisconsin food down into Virginia to feed those on relief there, another 800 miles? Weren't the cabbage enjoying the trip? And isn't that making nice business?

Speechless as some men become over the flagrant headlessness of the government things of this character are really on the preferred list, probably much less injurious to the country than the regular Washington program.

All we need now to make Badgerites happy is a few carloads of milk imported into this state from Florida or Texas which now produce more of that article than they seem capable of consuming.

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN
Chicago—The real story of what went on behind the scenes of the Democratic convention is one of the most amazing chapters in Roosevelt's variegated political history. It was a chapter of indecision, confusion and just plain muddling on the part of the White House circle. In the words of one delegate, they "didn't even have sense enough to hire a band."

Also it was a chapter of expert sabotage on the part of the Wheeler, Garner, and Farley anti.

Highlight of the entire backstage drama was the pressure put on the president to make his statement via Senator Barkley, that he did not desire a third term. It took a battery of his closest friends, including Harold Ickes, Bob Jackson, Miss Perkins, and Justice Frank Murphy to get this.

What they wanted was some statement which would clarify the muddled waters of the convention, and bring the third term issue squarely into the open. Originally, Roosevelt had shied away from making any statement at all, apparently proposing to let the convention have an absolutely free hand to take its own course.

For when Secretary Ickes dropped in to see him a week or so before the convention and said he wanted to lay the groundwork for Chicago, the president said: "Harold, I just don't want to discuss it."

INEXPERIENCED LEADERSHIP
When the convention met, therefore, not a thing had been done by the Roosevelt people to organize their forces. Harry Hopkins, the president's closest friend, but a man who has never even organized a county convention, was the main master mind, with Attorney General Jackson working in the background. Inexperienced and with few acquaintances among the delegates or local and state leaders, they were easy marks for their veteran rivals.

As a result, when the delegates began to drift into Chicago, at least 800 of them already pledged to Roosevelt, they also began to drift to the man whom they knew—James A. Farley. Jim not only knew them, but remembered their first names instantly, and began to wise-crack about "a third term" and Roosevelt.

A delegate doesn't mind being instructed in advance, and obeying instructions. But he does like to be consulted. And when the arriving delegates were not even able to shake hands with the Roosevelt leaders, they began to wonder why they had paid their own good cash to travel all the way from Maine and California, Florida and New Mexico.

JOE GUFFEY'S BAND
The New Dealers didn't even hire a band. There is nothing like a band to pep up a convention, but Garner's Texasans were the only ones that thought of it.

Paul McNutt was wise enough to rent a big layout in the Central Hotel, install a Hawaiian orchestra and entertainers and give the folks free entertainment. But the Roosevelt camp didn't get a band until an hour before Barkley's keynote speech, when Senator Joe Guffey and other Pennsylvania leaders chipped in and made up a purse of $110.

In the end it was a good thing they had the music. For when the convention staged its demonstration for Roosevelt, the band hired by the hostile national committee sat with arms folded. The day before they had played "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," when Jim Farley came on the platform.

"APPEALING" FOR ISOLATIONISTS
Thus, during the first two days at Chicago, everything happened which, from Roosevelt's viewpoint, shouldn't have happened. Senator Wagner suddenly adopted Chamberlain's appeasement tactics in the platform committee and appointed the most unadulterated isolationists in the senate to draft the war plank. They were Bennett Clark of Missouri, Worth Clark of Idaho, Wheeler of Montana and McCarran of Nevada.

Not even Henry Cabot Lodge in all his glory was a more rabid isolationist than any one of these. Senator Pittman, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, was barred from the platform group, and when Breckenridge Long, assistant secretary of state, asked to advise with the committee, he was kicked out.

Again, before Speaker Bankhead delivered his keynote speech, Democratic National committee aides sent for it and said that it was too long for the radio time. So the speech was cut. And for some entirely unexplained reason, the parts which were cut included the only three references to the president by name. That was why, in Bankhead's address, Roosevelt's name was not mentioned.

By this time, the convention was beginning to drift dangerously. Delegates, unconsoled, and with no hands to shake other than Jim Farley's were getting restless. There was an undercurrent of resentment—not at Roosevelt, but at the uncertainty.

ANTI-THIRD TERM STRATEGY
Meanwhile, Senator Wheeler confided that if the anti could stall the convention along and win a few more delegates, they could make the nomination so unpalatable that the president would refuse to take it. The anti knew they had no chance to win, but they figured that if they could grab 100 votes in addition to the 200 which they already controlled, then one of two things would happen:

1. Roosevelt would not consider the vote a genuine draft, and would refuse to run.

2. If he did run, he would have lost enough prestige, because of the convention bickering, seriously to impair his chances against Mr. Willkie.

It was at this point that the inner circle stepped into the picture with drastic moves. They decided that if something was not done soon it would be too late.

So they besieged the White House by telephone and telegraph. First they urged Roosevelt to come to Chicago. This was refused. Then they wanted him to issue a statement regarding the international crisis this country faces, which made him available if the country drafted him.

In the end they got the no-third-term statement. It wasn't what they wanted, but it did help. It opened the door for a positive drive for the nomination.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE LITTLE FARMER

Such a little lad to be driving cows
Home through the lane at milking time!
Above him he sees the maple boughs,
And over the fences the roses climb.

A future farmer, whose empire waits
The touch of his genius to expand,
He can hardly open the barnyard gates,
But his dog comes running at his command.

For already he has authority
Though he is only eight years old.
The cows are safe in the barn, to be
Milked ere the sun has shed its gold.

To scatter beauty on arid ways,
To dream of the harvest that will be,
To watch the flowering of better days,
That is his happy destiny!

A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT

Washington — Gastronomical:

Capital gourmets have an ache, but it didn't come from eating. Just the reverse, in fact. Russian caviar is up 100 per cent in price when you can get it at all. The fine French champagnes are getting as scarce as bathwater in Death Valley. The kegs of famous Holland and Munchen beers are getting down to the spigots.

Matjes herring, from Sweden, is soaring. Olives from Italy, Spain and other Mediterranean countries are far from as plentiful or as cheap as they used to be. The imported Dutch, Danish and Scandinavian cheeses no longer tickle the nostrils when you swing through the delicatessen screen doors.

The last shipment of spisbrod (Swedish bread) to arrive here, came by way of Russia and Japan. It's only a question of months now, if things go on like this, that the best smorgasbord in the land will look as meager as Sunday's chicken on Tuesday morning.

Imported sardines are no longer just hard to get out of the can... it's getting so you can't even get the cans. Polish hams are more often a memory than a reality. One more winter, and people who save their summers with Rhine wine and soda will have to turn to gin 'n' tonic. Ancient eggs, bird nests, and kipered octopus still are coming through from China but that's scant consolation. Oddly enough, the gourmets are about the only ones who are weeping... barring those importers who are finding business isn't what it was "before the war."

A lot of the delicatessen and fancy food grocers will tell you it's a good thing for America. Maybe, they say, our high-hat food connoisseurs will learn to "eat America first".... and like it.

Articular: Don't accuse me of any drive to shut up our congressional shop, but I just found out, that can't help repeating, that it costs $2,200 a month in telephone alone to keep Congress in session.

The annual telephone bill for the Capitol and the office buildings there is $40,000 to $45,000 a year. There are about 2,600 phones in the place, 1,200 belonging to the Senate and 1,400 to the House. In session, the Senate spends about $1,000 a month more; the House $1,200. That's on a basis of three cents apiece for outside calls and one cent apiece for calls to the government departments.

Fortunately for us taxpayers there's no such thing as overtime on Capitol calls. If there were, those senators and congressmen who call up and have their mail read to them at the breakfast table and sometimes dictate answers soon would double the national debt.

Questions of the day: Why does nearly everyone keep on referring to "The Allies" when Great Britain no longer has any alliance with anybody? Why hasn't someone done a really bang-up analysis of the propaganda in this war, pointing out that "the Allies," with a little less vigor, have applied the same technique, they used in the World War, while Germany has done an about-face and by pulling out the two important stops of fear and creation of internal dissension, has been effective in nearly every conquered country? What are our ladies (and our fashion designers) going to do about the absence of Paris fashions? How long can Britain hold out? What are the Willkie clan and the New Deal going to find to fight about that won't seem too, too trivial in the face of world events (on which they seem to be in such close agreement)?

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

It seems great to tune in on the old radio once more and not hear a roll call or a nominating speech. Two such ordeals in a little over a month have left the country so weak that nothing either party can do will help much.

The Democrats have named as their ticket the team of Roosevelt, emergency and Wallace.

Mr. Roosevelt says he wanted to get out a year ago, but that another emergency arrived just in time. It's another call to service and he can't resist a draft like that, especially when he put in so much work on it.

What the Democrats should have had in that platform was a plank saying, "We solemnly pledge that we will do anything to discourage a third term, short of doing something to discourage a third term."

The party wants four more years in which to rescue America, but after eight years of rescue work it's a big question whether the country can stand four more. An eight-year rescue is unusual, but a twelve-year rescue would be a world-breaker.

Let's See That We Get It!

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The dispatches from Chicago, narrating the optimistic speeches of Wisconsin Democrats and the plethora of potential governors and senators in their ranks, will be read by the discerning observers of state politics with the realization that the Democratic Party of Wisconsin is represented today by the same leadership which in the last three elections was unable to make the party acceptable to the voters of Wisconsin as an instrument for state government.

The same leaders under whose direction the party slid from dominance in 1932 to an unprecedented minority status in 1938 are still in undisputed control. A rebel movement which appeared to threaten the leadership of Broughton, Givnan, Carroll et al earlier in the year apparently collapsed at Chicago, as Broughton and Givnan, New Dealers, were saved from defeat by the votes of Garner, anti-New Deal Wisconsin Democrats.

The same leaders who now talk about drafting John Cudahy in order to wrest Roosevelt support from Senator LaFollette are the ones who in previous elections maneuvered, and traded, and dealt with Progressives until they were threatened by a rebellious resentment from rank and file Democrats.

The men who talk eagerly about returning to power in Wisconsin in the 1940 election can examine their own records at headquarters and find that the Democratic party machine in many counties and localities exists only on paper, can't find that the party in many counties can't get candidates to run for the legislature, and with less than two weeks remaining to circulate nomination papers to get on the ballot, hasn't even begun to organize a state ticket for that election.

RECOLLECTING
Recent reports that the Adams county school districts which intend to contest State Superintendent John Callahan's orders consolidating and eliminating excessively small districts and schools will retain former Attorney General Orland S. Loomis to fight their case is interesting in view of Loomis' record and his present candidacy for the governorship.

In 1929 Loomis was a member of the special legislative interim committee which did an historic and workmanlike job in investigating the public school system, and in a courageous report recommended the very consolidation program which Callahan is now promoting, but which it took the legislature 10 years to approve.

TILLER CHOICE

In his many years of political press-agency Art Tiller of Madison has participated in a lot of politics, has advised many important candidates in their quest for office. It was Tiller who handled publicity in Walter Kohler's defeat of LaFollette almost a decade ago. Tiller was the strategist in the remarkable Henry campaign in 1938. And Tiller was drafted to introduce Hell to the complexities of politics and newspapers after inauguration early in 1939.

The fact, therefore, that Tiller has now accepted employment in the campaign of William C. Maas, one of six candidates for the Republican senatorial nomination, may tell a story to Republican politicians upstate. Tiller has a habit of picking winners. It is noteworthy too that one of his closest friends, R. W.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

PRACTICE OF PROPHYLAXIS

My great secret ambition, to engage in private practice as a prophylactor, that is, to limit my practice to preventive medicine exclusively, having been thwarted by the quaint attitude of the medical profession which does not even now recognize such a field of practice as a legitimate specialty.

Every year or so some reader writes to thank me for something I said in this column which warned or alarmed him or her, with the result that he or she sought proper medical examination or treatment and caught some serious malady in time. On the other hand, just as often I am penalized for having scared somebody into hurrying to his or her doctor for examination only to discover that the trouble is not serious after all.

Now people who express appreciation or thanks for instruction or advice I have given thru this service sometimes intimate that they wish they might consult me regularly in private. That is flattering, but from what I know of human nature I doubt there are enough people of that mind to support a specialist who might elect to limit his practice to that field.

People in general need a good deal more education before private practice of prophylaxis or preventive medicine will become feasible. As yet, far too large a portion of the population, even the more intelligent class, prefer to gamble with health, trying this or that remedy or treatment on the suggestion of friend or stranger who "had the same trouble."

A formidable obstacle to the private practice of preventive medicine is the traditional reverence of the medical profession for pathological anatomy, organic disease, the signs of gross structural change produced by disease; and the corresponding contempt for and neglect of pathological physiology, functional disease and the subjective symptoms produced thereby. Necessarily the private prophylactor would concern himself or herself almost wholly with functional disturbances or irregularities, with symptoms.

How many persons who are now subject to pre-diabetes will discover their condition in time to take the necessary steps to prevent development of the disease? Very few, for the reason already indicated—people prefer to gamble with their own health; they consult a physician only when they are convinced they have some serious ailment.

Only three or four years ago physicians generally assumed that deficiency diseases, such as beriberi, curvy and pellagra were rare among the general population, and the fully developed diseases are rare, but competent investigators and clinicians have found that a large portion of the population, even the middle and presumably well nourished classes, suffer various health impairments or functional ailments which are due to moderate deficiencies of the essential vitamins in their diet.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Hodgkin's Disease
Can anything be done for Hodgkin's disease? Where is there a good specialist who can tell certainly whether that is the trouble or not? (Mrs. G. E. R.)

Answer—X-ray treatment appears

Peterson, is an opposing candidate for the nomination.

Note: Any animosity which may have been felt between Tiller and his former chief, Governor Hell, immediately after the former resigned from the executive office staff in a spat over publicity methods, has now disappeared. The two are on good terms again.

to be the best treatment known. I do not know of a specialist—diagnosis is a question of the doctor's opinion.

"White Iodine" Is Not Iodine
Is it all right to use white or colorless iodine instead of the regular brown iodine for the iodine ration you recommend? (Mrs. J. B.)

Answer—Colorless "iodine" is not iodine at all, but a solution of iodide of potassium and iodide of ammonium. For the iodine ration I recommend only standard. Tincture of Iodine, the brown liquid commonly used as first aid application to wounds etc. Send stamped envelope bearing your address, and ask for Instructions for Taking the Iodine Ration.

Psoriasis
You had an article about psoriasis some time ago and we hoped for further discussions of the subject—your suggestions are generally sound and of practical value. Please continue. (E. F. D.)

Answer—I hesitate to run the risk of typographical errors in reference to some subjects. It is included in booklet "Save Your Teeth"—for copy send 25c coin and stamped envelope bearing your address.

Ether and the Permanent
Does it take the permanent out of one's hair if one takes ether at childbirth? Is it better to wait a month after ether to have a permanent? (Mrs. W. K. J.)

Answer—Taking ether has nothing to do with the hair or the hair dressing. For monograph on Care of the Hair and Control of Dandruff send stamped envelope bearing your address.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, July 19, 1930
A heat wave swept across the nation, with Chicago and environs reporting readings above 100 degrees. It was 92 in Appleton.

The Wisconsin Poultry Breeders association opened a 3-day meeting in Appleton the previous day. Mayor Goodland welcomed the delegates at the opening session at Pierce park.

The Zion Lutheran Brotherhood of Zion Lutheran church planned to hold its annual picnic the next day at Erb park. Committee members were Otto Reetz, chairman, Emil Kahler, John Stecker, and John Falk.

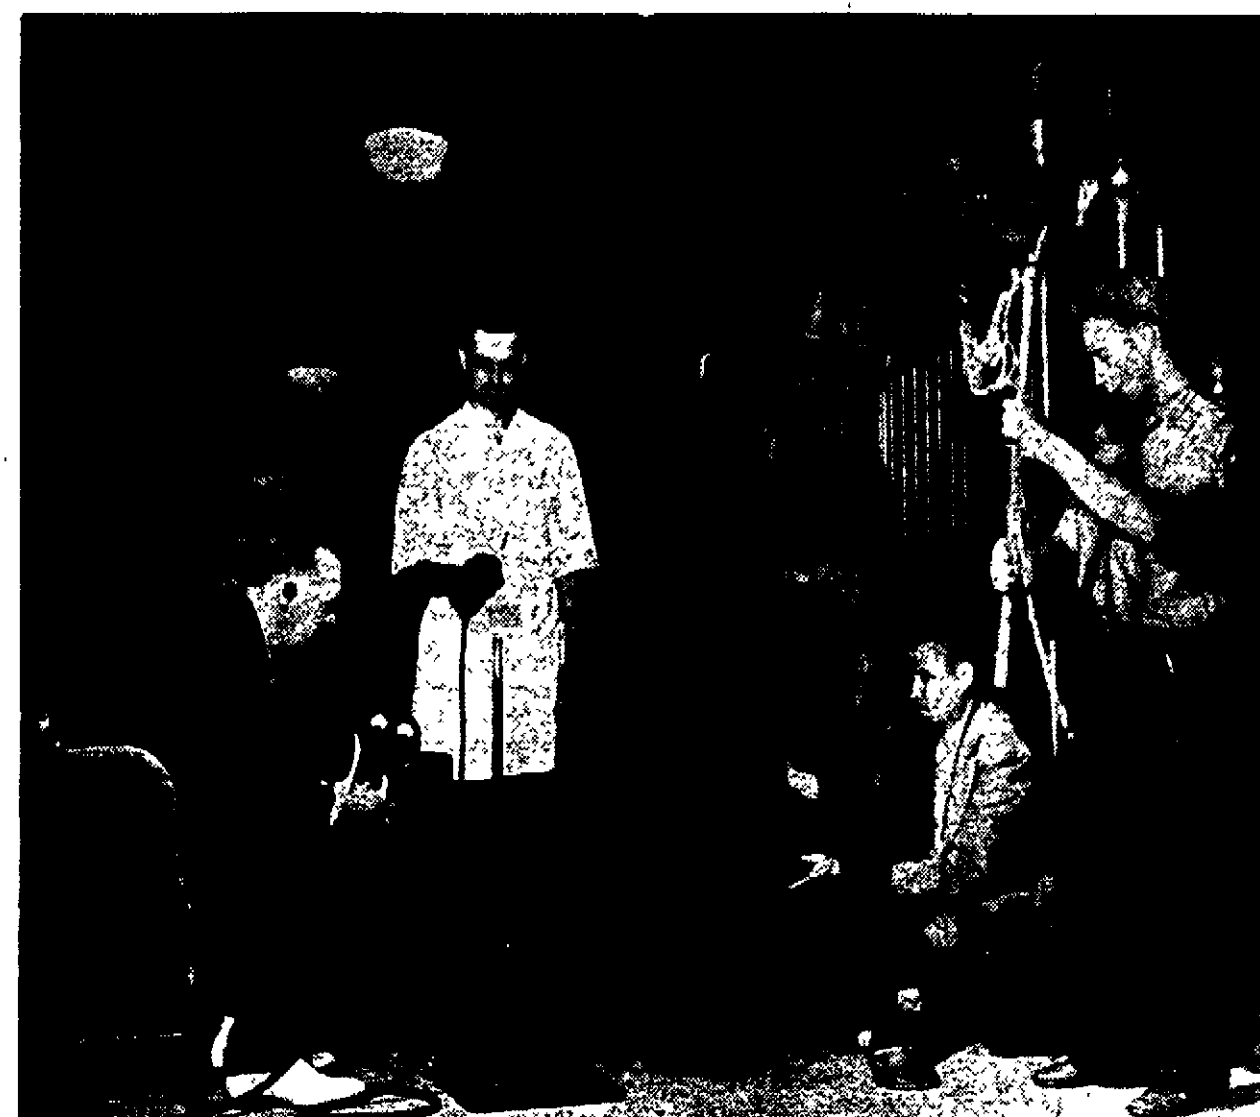

James McKeeney and Ralph McGowan were two of the four semi-finalists in the Northeastern Wisconsin Golf tournament.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, July 24, 1915
The Appleton national guard unit, led by Major Pomeroy, returned from Camp Douglas the previous evening.

Clarence Schroeder and John Callahan left for Stout Institute, Menomonie, to take a 5-week course. Both were teaching in the industrial school in Appleton.

Sergeant John Maack of the police department caught a queer fish the previous day in the marshes near Stroeb's Island. The fish was about eight inches long and yellow in color. About half an inch back of the gills were two projections that looked like wings. The fish was sent to Madison for identification.

Neenah Guards Hold Bivouac

Company I Conducts Overnight Camp at Payne Point Sector

Neenah — Company I, 127th infantry, Wisconsin National Guard, is on an overnight bivouac at Payne's Point with Captain Howard G. Whitman and his two officers, Lieutenants Antoine Poquette and Clifford Ziegler, in charge.

The bivouac, which is being held on the Grover Cowling property, is advanced training for the 21-day army maneuver starting Aug. 11 at Camp McCoy.

The guards left the S. A. Cook Armory at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and at 4:30 they were scheduled to set up the camp. This evening's program included compass reading problems at 8 o'clock, lantern guard duty at 9 o'clock, establishment of outpost line of resistance at 10 o'clock, refreshments at 11 o'clock and taps at midnight.

Reveille tomorrow morning will be at 6 o'clock and mess at 6:30, close order drill at 7:30, extended order drill at 8:30, scouting and patrolling at 9:30 and combat principles at 10:30. Camp will be broken in time so that the men can return home for Sunday dinner.

Captain Whitman reported that the company has received orders from guard headquarters to keep on recruiting men.

Neenah Man Awarded $1,416 in Settlement

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau Oshkosh — John C. Young, Third street, Neenah, was awarded $1,016.37 for injuries and $400 for loss of wages in an out-of-court settlement today following the $5,000 damage action against Mrs. Eleanor Eiss, 714 Hewitt street, Neenah, and the General Accident and Life Assurance company before Municipal Judge S. J. Luchsinger.

Although not parties to the suit, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin E. Mace, 301 E. Wisconsin avenue, Neenah, were awarded $575. The suit grew out of an accident March 23, 1939, on Highway 151 near Columbus. Young and the Maces were passengers in the Eiss car.

Arrange Pairings for Girls Tennis Tourney

Neenah — Pairings for the girls' division of the tennis tournament at the Menasha courts next week were announced today by Lee Royer, WPA recreational director.

They are: Betty Yaley plays Mrs. O. Schommer, Marion Homan versus Sylvia Drexler, Mary Ann Eckrich meets Myrtle Gladys Winge plays Rose Mary Austin, Myra Kuester meets Carol Jersild, Delores Kurovski, Leola Blackes and Betty Block, byes.

Quits Tourney to Be Held at Neenah

Neenah — A horseshoe tournament between teams from Neenah and Waupaca will be conducted at 1:30 Sunday afternoon at the Neenah High school courts.

The Twin Cities office of the Appleton Post-Crescent for its editorial, circulation and display advertising departments is located at 510 N. Commercial street, and the telephone number is 4100. News items, copy or orders for display advertising and orders for subscriptions may be left at the office or telephoned. Orders for classified advertising should be placed by telephoning 543 in Appleton, and the cost of the telephone call will be rebated. The Twin Cities office closes at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Menasha Woman's Relief Corps Observes 50th Anniversary

Menasha — Past department officers and past national officers and members of Woman's Relief Corps units in the Fox River Valley joined with the J. P. Shepard corps of Menasha in the observance of the Menasha corps fiftieth anniversary Friday afternoon at First Congregational church. About 125 persons attended.

Campaign speeches for Mrs. Mae Luchsinger, Oshkosh, as national department president, as well as criticism of the present administration in Washington, D. C. highlighted brief talks which featured the afternoon program.

Mrs. Belle W. Bliss, Baraboo, past national president of the Woman's Relief corps, who has missed one since 1887, urged members to cast their votes for Mrs. Luchsinger as national president of the corps and presented the Menasha corps with a floral gift. In a few "aside" remarks

Schueler Hero as Gold Labels Win

Menasha — H. Schueler hurled and baited the Gold Labels to a shutout victory over Pond's at Appleton, 8 to 0, Friday.

The Menasha twirler, allowed only four scattered hits, fanned eight and walked one, while Kloes, Appleton pitcher, was nicked for 11 hits, struck out five and walked one.

Going into the final inning, the Gold Labels were leading, 1 to 0, having scored the lone counter in the second frame, when the pitcher hoisted out a homer. Seven runs came in that inning for Menasha. Beach and Hoks paced the Menasha sluggers, the former having a perfect day with three hits in as many trips and the latter counted two safeties in four trips.

The Gold Labels will meet Terminal Tavern, Fond du Lac, at 2:30 Sunday afternoon at the Seventh street diamond.

Condition of Injured Boy Described 'Fair'

Neenah — The condition of Ronald Young, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram E. Young, 401 Hewitt street, who was injured critically in an automobile accident Friday morning, is "fair," it was reported this morning at Theda Clark hospital.

The youth received a skull fracture, internal injuries, multiple fractures of the ribs on both sides and multiple lacerations of the body.

Ronald was thrown out of a car driven by his brother, Lawrence, 20, when it collided with a machine driven by Edward Weitzel, 673 Elm street, Neenah, at E. Columbus avenue and Oak street at 7:55 yesterday morning.

Neenah Foundry Will Battle Winneconne

Neenah — The Neenah Foundry will tangle with Winneconne at 2:15 Sunday afternoon in a Wolf River Valley league game at Washington park diamond.

Harry Schroeder will be assigned to toe the mound for the Foundry, and Hackstock will receive.

The rest of the line-up is composed of Barr 1b, Page 2b, Handy 3b, Johnson 3b, R. Schroeder cf, Haufe rf, and Metzlg lf.

Twin City Births

Neenah — A son was born last night to Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Noe, 300 Chute street, Menasha, at Theda Clark hospital.

A daughter was born this morning to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Knoedler, 427 Tenth street, Neenah, at Theda Clark hospital.

Rubbish Wednesday

Menasha — Rubbish will be collected in the second district on Wednesday, according to H. O. Haugh, city health officer. The district includes Water street and the area north up to, but not including, Second street.

on the Roosevelt administration. Mrs. Bliss deplored "the high school boys games which have been going on the last few years in Washington" as well as "politics running in to benefits of the country."

Presents Gift

Mrs. Martha Knutson, Lodi, department president, spoke briefly and presented a floral gift to the Menasha corps on behalf of the department of Wisconsin. Other speakers were Mrs. Marian Mantoville, Lodi, Mrs. Mary Leibman, Green Bay, Mrs. Freda Herrick, past department president from Neenah, Mrs. Daisy Heinemann, past department president from Milwaukee, who urged that all corps members live American, think American and see that "your neighbors and friends are American."

Mrs. B. Thomas, Menasha corps members, reviewed the history of the Menasha corps as she welcomed the guests. Mrs. Lydia Henry, Winneconne, invited members of the corps represented to the anniversary of that corps next year.

Mrs. Katherine Wheeler, on behalf of the Appleton corps, presented a gift of flowers as did Mrs. Mary Sheerin on behalf of the Neenah corps. Greetings were received from Dora Welton, Oshkosh, past department president and from the auxiliary to the Henry J. Lenz post.

Mrs. Jennie Grode, patriotic instructor of the Menasha corps, program chairman, announced the program numbers.

Featuring the afternoon entertainment was a history of American dance with students from Buttes and Morris school under the direction of Miss Cecilia Boyce participating. Billy Sewell, Duane Doty, Dick Floyd, Mabel Taggart and Patsy Jensen presented an Indian war dance.

Dance Minuet
Barbara Auer, Bonnie Galloway, Billy Sewell and Duane Doty danced the minuet after which Janet Kuester, Barbara Auer, Patsy Jensen, Bonnie Galloway, Victor Schankle, Dick Floyd, Billy Sewell and Duane Doty entertained with a barn dance. Janet Kuester, Jane Page, Patsy Jensen, Billy Sewell, Dick Floyd and Duane Doty performed in the waltz and Mary Jensen and Catherine Loomans did the modern jitterbug dance. Mary Jensen and Barbara Auer were interpreters and readers for the program.

Mrs. Frank Broeren, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. J. C. Rose, now, presented vocal selections. Miss Phyllis Keapock gave a reading.

Mrs. Nellie Strong, president of the Menasha corps, was toastmistress. Mrs. Emil Schults played piano selections during the dinner and was the accompanist for the songs by the assembly.

The oldest members of the J. P. Shepard corps of Menasha are Mrs. A. Clovis, Mrs. Amelia Hill and Mrs. Dora Friedland. Mrs. Clovis and Friedland were able to attend the anniversary luncheon and program.

Pled Not Guilty

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau Oshkosh — James Webb, and M. W. Krueger, both of Neenah, pleaded not guilty of maliciously destroying property when they were arraigned before Municipal Judge S. J. Luchsinger this morning. Trial was set for 9:30 Wednesday morning. O. H. Spude, 300 Lincoln street, Neenah, signed the complaint.

Neenah Personals

Mrs. Carrie Brush, 243 E. Doty avenue, Neenah, has been admitted to Theda Clark hospital for treatment.

Jerome Berendsen, Main street, has returned from Minneapolis, Minn., where he was receiving treatment in one of the hospitals.

Will Remodel Home

Neenah — Alfred Jonscher, 754 Elm street, Neenah, was granted a permit this morning to remodel his home at a cost of $850. John Blenker, city building inspector, issued the permit.

1,000 Witness 1st Swim Meet At Neenah Pool

Winners Qualify For A.A.U. Event To Be Held Here

Neenah — More than 1,000 persons watched Neenah's first annual closed swimming and diving meet last night at the new pool. The gallery above the women's dressing room was filled to capacity and there were many persons outside the pool area.

The winners in the meet, which was in two divisions, qualified for the Wisconsin A.A.U. swimming and diving meet which will be held at the Neenah pool Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4.

Stars of the meet were Bill Miller who won two first places, Donald Jape, who copped a first and a second, and Charles Ziegler, who also won a first and second.

Following the meet, Kenneth Westberg, Menasha, gave an exhibition of diving.

Results of the boys meet:
50-meter free style—John Paulus, first; Donald Jape, second; Eugene Calloway, third. Time 32 seconds.
100-meter free style—Frank Luebben, first; Martin Meyer, second; Glen Ohlrogge, third. Time 1 minute 36.4 seconds.
100-meter breaststroke—Al Sturges, first; Robert Austin, second; Albert Ackerman, third. Time 1 minute 58.4 seconds.
50-meter backstroke—Bill Miller, first; Austin, second; Ackerman, third. Time 40 seconds.
Diving—Donald Jape, first; Robert Skall, second; Frank Luebben, third. Winners points 1064.

Results of the men's meet:
50-meter free style—Charles Ziegler, first; Richard Radtke, second; H. B. Kellogg, third. Time 32.8 seconds.
100-meter free style—Richard Meyer, first; Eugene Calloway, second; Clifford Bunker, third. Time 1 minute 36.2 seconds.
50-yard breaststroke—Bert Kellogg, first; John Donovan, second; Al Sturges, third. Time 50.3 seconds.
50-meter backstroke—Bill Miller, first; Kellogg, second; Donald Bentzen, third. Time 40.4 seconds.

Parents are Blamed for Their Children's Faults

BY ANGELO PATRI

The social problems of youth are the responsibilities of age. When young people crowd into cars that are intended to carry half as many, go to a roadhouse, dance and drink until dawn, run into each other on the road on the way home and kill themselves, nobody blames the children. The wrath of the public falls on the heads of the parents, the proprietors of the road-houses, the grown-ups who might have prevented the catastrophe by taking heed beforetime.

We all know how difficult it is to supervise young people who think themselves matured and therefore entitled to their freedom in all matters without the weight of discipline, parental control or personal responsibility. That does not relieve us of our responsibility. We pay the bill in grief, time, money and responsibility. Why don't we insist upon preventing trouble that brings such costs upon us and upon our children.

Control Their Activities

Does any responsible person believe that young people should crowd themselves into cars? Are we not all agreed that public dance rooms should be supervised? Have we not laws that prohibit serving drinks to minors? Why don't we enforce our wisdom of our youth? Isn't it better to discipline young people into understanding their need for protection, advice and control than to allow them to do what we fear will injure them, even destroy them?

We have schools with gymnasiums, we have church houses, clubs, regulated places where young people can enjoy themselves without getting into jams. We ought to insist that our children use these places and shun the others. We ought to do more. We ought to shut every roadhouse, saloon, restaurant or other place of entertainment that sells liquor to young people who are under age, or that sells it to them when it is evident they have had enough.

Stringent Rules Needed

We ought to do one thing more. We should make the houses of public entertainment responsible for the condition of the driver of the car when he leaves the place. No boy—no driver young or old of either sex—should be permitted to drive a car from a public house when he is under the influence of drink. If the proprietor was held responsible before the law for any accident that happened to a car

Redouble in This Position Was Unwise

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Sometimes a redouble will cause quite a swing in duplicate games. When the opening preemptive bidder redoubled my double of his four heart contract he did not foresee that he gave me an opportunity to make a bid which resulted in giving my partner and myself a top on the board.

"East, dealer.
"Match point duplicate.
"Neither side vulnerable."

NORTH
♠ K 10 4 3
♥ A K Q 10 4
♦ A Q 8
♣ A Q 8

WEST
♥ Q 7 4
♦ 9 8 5
♣ K 10 5 4

EAST
♠ A J
♥ A J 10 8 6 5
♦ J

SOUTH
♠ Q 8 6 5
♦ 7 6 5 3
♣ 9 8 2

"East, the dealer, opened the bidding with three hearts. Probably a bid of one heart would have been better, considering the outside ace he held and certainly, if he wanted to preempt, a four heart bid was much preferable to three hearts. South passed and West raised the contract to four hearts. I, sitting North, with four honor cards in my hand, doubled and East promptly redoubled.

"When the bid came around to me I considered passing, but the redouble seemed to indicate some outside strength and I finally made the bid which I probably should have made in the first place, namely, four no trump. It appeared that if my partner held as good as four or five spades to the queen we would have a good play for five spades, while if he held clubs I could then bid diamonds with a fair degree of safety. East doubled and my partner then bid five spades, which East again doubled.

"The queen of hearts was opened and it was not difficult to make the doubled contract for a top.

"The point I make is that a four heart contract doubled would have been down one for a normal score, while even if played at the same contract redoubled, the result would have been bad for East. As matters turned out, it gave us the chance to make a fairly logical bid in view of the preemptive bidding, and earn a more or less deserved top.

"I would like to know what your reaction is to the four no trump bid. To me it seems logical after the redouble, although I admit the spade suit is perhaps a little sketchy for this purpose. M. A., Missouri."

East's bidding was very bad through. Since his partner had not yet passed, the correct opening bid was a simple one heart East's hand was far too strong for the preemptive bid of three hearts, and it was far too weak, defensively, for the redouble. East should have realized that at four hearts he at least could not be hurt, but that if the opponents ran to four spades or five in a minor suit, he himself would be able to supply only one trick, the spade ace, to the defense.

Now for North's bidding. A four no trump overcall or preemptive bidding is actually a huge take-out double, demanding that partner name his best suit. Since this response may have to be made at the five level, it naturally follows that his action of first doubling and then making the four no trump bid only under duress, so to speak, is despite the fact that the double, if left in all around, would have given North-South a very unsatisfactory result.

Women Are Supposed To Be Soft

Men don't want hardiness in women. Bright red fireproof polish adds to this harsh note, as men uniformly admit. Cynicism and risqué stories, indulgence in alcohol and gambling—these traits are just as de-feminizing to a woman in the sight of males, as if she grew a mustache.

It is odd that women are so blind to such facts, and therefore sell their strongest appeals for such trivial vulgarities. Even in young attractive women, those masculine attributes are derogatory. A surplus of youthful charm may temporarily offset them at age 20, but it is never wise to handicap your attractiveness with the excess baggage of de-feminizing traits.

If you still don't understand the psychology of husbands, then send for my "Test for Wives," wherein 600 husbands tell you exactly what they like and dislike in wives. They were frank, too.

THE HOME GARDENER

by EDWIN H. PERKINS

Few summer flowering perennials are in greater demand among gardeners than helenium. They grow to be a plant which has demonstrated its ability to grow and bloom profusely despite conditions that would have an adverse effect on most other perennials. Nearly every one attempts to grow it from seeds.

Growing helenium from seeds is not easy, as most gardeners have learned. Even the otherwise successful commercial grower finds that he has difficulties in transplanting helenium seedlings.

If you have experienced all the difficulties which attend helenium culture, it is recommended that you again try it. This time divide one of your established plants. No need to wait for cool weather, cloudy days or any of the other conditions which are indicated for ordinary perennial division. Just go into your garden, dig up a root of helenium, tear it into pieces and transplant each bit to moderately fertile soil containing a fair quantity of moisture. This plan seems to work where all the others have failed.

Among the interesting new sorts of helenium are moerheimi, with bronzy petals, and Nanum luteum. Both these grow to a height of only several feet, which makes them more desirable from a garden standpoint than the former five-foot sort.

Beauty and You

Besides being yourself, there are two definite, contrasting roles of femininity which you may play with equal charm this summer. If you desire, you may be sweet, gentle, and Dresden doll-like in appearance and mood. Then you will wear a floating gown, carry a lace fan and trail in your wake an aura of true old-fashioned scent and sentiment!

But come another night, and another moon, and you might want to sweep aside all quaint romanticism to appear glamorously spectacular and as excitingly exotic as that Latin siren, Dolores Del Rio!

But how, you ask, can I create these personalities.

Done With a Mirror

There are few artifices that can create or change a mood more quickly than a perfume!

For the moonlight-and-roses personality you must spray your freshly showered skin with a Cologne which has the sweet fresh tang of an old-fashioned garden. You must enchant with the fragrance of moss roses, lavender, old-fashioned pinks and other garden favorites! It calls up visions of crinolines and velvet bows, delicate wrists and stiletto heels!

Your skin must look whiter than it truly is. To achieve this you select that rich pinky-red lipstick which contrasts so lovely with soft rose face powder. It makes you look fragile if you apply the make-up over a smooth, mat-finish powder base. Your eyes next. Make them wide and innocent, with tiny brushes and small spots of coloring. Now your gown, your fan, and your conquest!

South American Way!

When your tempo is to be as Latin as the rhumba and as gay you must choose a stirring, heady Cologne and you must use it lavishly. For in South America everything is extreme!

Over your summer's tan goes a vibrant, flattering make-up which adds depth to your skin tone and gives definiteness to lips, cheeks and eyes. The effect must be rich, spirited and dark, and every bit of your exposed skin—neck, chest, arms and legs—must match in tone! Your lipstick, rouge and eye make-up must be brilliant and dramatic, and you must clothe yourself in a splashy print or a gown of strong color to match the hibiscus or its chartreuse leaf.

Which to be—temptress or siren? That is up to you. But one leading salon has made both roles available by brewing colognes and mixing make-up. It might be fun to be three personalities this summer—Yourself, a South American or a Story-Book Girl!

How a Husband Should Act to Alienate Wife

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I was very much interested in your article on how wives should act if they want to lose their husbands. May I tell you some of the few things about how to lose their wives? A good way to begin is by going slovenly and slothfully around the house. Never shave, except when absolutely necessary. A three-day beard will cure any wife of a desire to kiss her husband. Go around in your stocking feet. Don't waste a clean shirt on a mere wife. Wear your soiled one with the collar open and no necktie when you are home. Be a scatterer. Never hang up a coat or a hat. Throw them, hit or miss, at the nearest chair and if they miss it and fall on the floor, it is all the better. Scatter cigarette ashes on the floor and avoid the use of an ash tray as if it would bite you. Leave all your soiled clothes and used towels on the bathroom floor. Your wife will be wondering as she scrubs up after you whatever made her think she wanted to marry you. The minute you get home get behind a newspaper and never reply to anything your wife says. Merely grunt. Be one of the husbands who never open their mouths except to put food into them. It is so pleasant for a woman who married for companionship to find out that she has to spend her life with a clam on ice.

Dorothy Dix

Never to be on time for your meals. Stop by the poolroom for a few games on your way home of an evening, or drop in at Benny's for a drink and an argument with a caddy over the political situation, while the good meal that your wife has prepared for you dries up on the back of the stove. You can raise ructions over it and demand to know why she has never learned how to cook, but you will never know how you escaped having the coffee pot heated at your head.

Never remember birthdays. Mother's day, anniversaries, and when your wife reminds you that Christmas comes on the 25th of December this year, shove a check at her and tell her to get what she likes, you don't know what she wants. Nothing kills the love light in a wife's eyes like neglect.

Always remind your wife that the children's bad fault came from her inferior family. Nobody on your side of the house had adenoids or crooked teeth, or had to be scourged to school, or thought about having dates until they were 20 years old. Call the child "my son" or "my daughter" when they take prizes at school or behave like angels, but lay them on her when they are bad and mischievous.

Raise rows over the bills every month. Blame her for rents having gone up, butchers' meat being higher, the price of coal, and John's having broken his arm and having to go to the hospital. Make her feel that she has consumed all the food, monopolized all the heat and light, and worn all the shoes in the family. It is so discouraging to a woman who has worked like a slave and pinched every penny to feel that her husband does not appreciate her efforts to help him.

Always criticize your wife's clothes. Tell her that her hat is a freak and that her worst enemy must have picked out her dress. Remind her that she is getting fat and losing her complexion, and demand to know why she doesn't look like some woman who buys her frocks at specialty shops and spends half of her time in the beauty parlor.

Never show her any sympathy when she feels badly. When she is sick accuse her of being a complainer and a whiner and spend your evenings downtown. She will do a lot of serious thinking about whether marriage is a failure or not while she is lying up there in her lonely sick room.

Always talk about how much you admire the get-up-and-go type of woman who smokes and drinks, but give her hell Columbia and threaten to leave her if she even looks at a cocktail. Act like a martyr every time a member of her family comes to see her. Treat her mother as if she were an interloper and snub her old father. If that doesn't make her hate you nothing will.

Always be philandering around with some pretty young girl. It will make her mad enough to wish you off on her.

Answer:

From all of which we gather that it is just as easy to lose a wife as it is a husband.

Over-Mothering Child Is Dangerous

Dear Miss Dix—I have a 5-year-old daughter. I live with my parents and my mother takes care of her little girl, while I work and bring home the bacon, so to speak. I have been keeping company with a man who lives at a distance and up over a smooth, mat-finish powder base. Your eyes next. Make them wide and innocent, with tiny brushes and small spots of coloring. Now your gown, your fan, and your conquest!

When your tempo is to be as Latin as the rhumba and as gay you must choose a stirring, heady Cologne and you must use it lavishly. For in South America everything is extreme!

Young Jumper Outfit

BY ANNE ADAMS

It's smart to "dress your age" . . . and there's nothing so young and spirited on a junior-miss as a jumper outfit! Anne Adams has given Pattern 4502 willowy princess lines that are easy to stitch for even the youngest dressmaker. The two center front and back panels may be used on the straight grain or in a striking bias, as pictured. See how attractively the top is shaped; how smart the button trim looks at the waistline. The simple blouse is made with either short or long, full sleeves and a decorative scalloped collar. Do choose a stunning new corduroy for this early fall and back-to-school style.

Pattern 4502 is available in junior miss sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18. Size 13, jumper, takes 2½ yards 54 inch fabric; blouse 1½ yards 39 inch fabric.

Good Taste Today by Emily Post

BORED BY MAN

If a man whom a girl doesn't know very well, or like enough to be interested in everything he says, telephones her to ask, "May I see you Thursday evening?" how can she tell him that she'd like to be taken out somewhere and not just sit home and talk? The letter from which this is quoted, continues:

"In the example I have in mind, this man's idea of a pleasant evening is a prolonged one-sided conversation about himself. The second time he called I thought he had surely told me his whole life's history and that we'd go to a movie. But again we stayed in. The best suggestion for entertainment he could make was to play double solitaire. How can I avoid having this happen a third time, short of not seeing the man at all? I don't think it would be very polite to ask him when he telephones, 'What are we going to do?' and then after that say I can't see him if I don't like his suggestion. Or can I?"

In reply to this, I myself would like to ask WHY do you WANT to see the man at all? WHY are you willing to spend another minute, let alone a whole evening, with any one who so evidently bores you, I can't imagine! But at least I can suggest, when he again asks if he may come to see you, that instead of replying, "Oh yes indeed, I'll be home," you tell him frankly, "The Star Cast" is at the Play House, and I really want to see it. If he says, "I thought we'd just talk," you can say, "Sorry! But Thursday is the only evening I can see the picture. But if you don't want to see it that's all right, I can go with some girls who are going. In other words, the worldly fact is that it is very wise to try to please a man you like—still more, the man you love—but very senseless to encourage the attentions of a bore.

Introducing a Young Doctor

Dear Mrs. Post: I've been told that an M. D. should always be introduced as Dr. Jones. Does this mean that even to one's intimate friends, an intimate friend who is a doctor should be introduced this way? It hardly sounds natural.

Answer: You introduce him as Dr. Jones exactly as you introduce any other friend as Mr. If you would say, "Mary, this is Tom Smith," you would introduce the doctor, "Mary, this is David Jones." In the case of a clergyman, we usually stretch the point of ordinary practice and introduce him with title, even to our intimate friends.

Sister's Boy Friend Is An Outsider

Dear Mrs. Post: The question has arisen whether to invite an ordinary boy friend, not a fiancé, of the groom-to-be's sister to the wedding breakfast. The sister coming to this will include none but relatives and best friends, and I can't see how a boy friend of the girl who is a stranger to all of us would fit in. But the sister always has one boy or another tagging along.

Answer: The only reason why an extra man might be asked at a time like this would be to make the places at table even. Otherwise, you should not be expected to ask him to such a small and intimate gathering. This girl should come with her family just as she would be expected to come to any other meeting of the family.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Introductions." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope, with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of the Post-Crescent, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Before doing anything at all, Jan stretched out in her striped canvas deck chair and concentrated on the achievement of complete relaxation. Almost she fell asleep, caught herself, yawned and blinked and took a few bending exercises. Today she wore a smock of yellow linen with exaggerated collar and gay flowing skirt, new yellow anklets and cork-soled sandals.

Maybe it was a hunch, maybe a conditioning reflex, but she abeyed at setting up her easel and dabbling with oils or water colors. No, today she would sketch, draw anything and everything she saw.

Putting a drawing board across the arms of the deck chair she tacked a sheet of heavy white paper on it and laid a half-dozen soft black pencils within reach. Her glance took in the possibilities offered by the rooftop. There was Derek's tent, the big red chimney, the pots holding blooming purple petunias, raked dahlias, white tulips, multi-colored nasturtiums—and right in front of her, patting at, then crumpled and tossing up a clumped piece of paper, Neptune. Sensing he had an interested audience he flattened out on his side holding the paper between his paws and regarded her with inscrutable amber eyes.

Swiftly, smiling to herself as she worked she sketched him with sure, deft strokes of pencil. "Neppy," she said, "why didn't I use you as a model before? You behave well and you cost me nothing."

Two On A Spree

In fifteen minutes' time the sketch was completed. Jan turned her head this way and that to observe all perspectives on her work. The smile she wore disappeared. "Neppy!" she gasped out. "Neppy, I've put you on paper. I mean it's really you. Alive, mischievous, resting from play. This is the only thing I've ever done that's alive!"

Excited, yet controlling her eagerness, she took more paper and took time to pose her model. For hours she worked, completely unaware of time passing. She drew the commonplace cat lapping cream; curled on the parapet with the breeze rumpling his fur; peeking out between flower pots; standing upright smelling for catnip on a small table sleeping in a basket, and teasing with wide open mouth for a piece of fish in her fingers. In all she made six sketches, then traced her name in bold signature at the bottom of each.

Quaking inside, almost afraid to risk second examination, she lifted each one for a minute scrutiny, placed tissue over it and put it on the pile.

"They are good," she whispered in quivering exultation. "Good enough to sell!"

Unaware of it, hugging to herself this secret, she packed the sketches in crumpled paper, bound them with corrugated paper and addressed them to a nationally famous women's magazine. Determined not to consult anyone, she carried them to the post office and mailed them.

Not until she was halfway home did reaction set in and then she waited to dash back to the post office and retrieve her package.

She assured herself practically. "The worst that can happen is rejection. If they don't catch the editor's fancy she'll send them back to me. That's all. Now, instead of living in an agony of suspense, just

HIGH TIDE

YESTERDAY: Rose, curious about Derek, makes a play for him. In her he sees scheming Lenore over again. Jan observes Rose kissing him and of course, doesn't know how Derek regards her.

Neptune Poses

Jan turned deep, cool eyes to Derek. "I've done as you advised, Derek—about my painting. I'm rested now and eager to try again. I don't quite know yet what it will be, but surely something different. Tomorrow morning I begin my last attempt."

"Good. You'll succeed this time." "Derek, why don't you try again? It might be different now. You are different whether you realize it or not."

"It's no use, Jan." His tone was final. "As a composer I'm finished—if I ever began. I'd rather not talk about it."

She let her voice be deliberately scornful. "If you had any faith in yourself at all, if you had the least bit of courage."

"Oh, stop," he ordered crossly. "Next time you'll be saying my sore ego hasn't healed."

"Go back to your cooking and leave me alone," he said rudely, scowling at her.

The next morning, as soon as the breakfast dishes were done and Lance's needs attended to, Jan took herself and Neptune up on the roof. The sky was overcast, but the air was warm for May, and overcast mornings caused little concern to people who lived year round at the beach.

Before doing anything at all, Jan stretched out in her striped canvas deck chair and concentrated on the achievement of complete relaxation. Almost she fell asleep, caught herself, yawned and blinked and took a few bending exercises. Today she wore a smock of yellow linen with exaggerated collar and gay flowing skirt, new yellow anklets and cork-soled sandals.

you forget all about it until you hear one way or the other!"

For the duration of the afternoon she worked hard at forgetting, but she could not dampen the joy leaping in her, exhilarating her, making her eyes flow with creative satisfaction.

However, her dinner companions succeeded in dampening some of her fiery excitement. Norma, so meek and mild, picked at her food like a dispirited mouse, while Lance fairly bolted his food, determined, Jan thought, to get away from Norma and back to the possibility of seeing Rose as soon as it was humanly possible. She attempted to carry on table conversation, Derek helping, but no one could possibly carry on conversation with two people who behaved as if they were both deaf and dumb.

Norma did not go into Lance's room any more. She sat in the living room or up in her bedroom with her knitting, her school papers, and her heartbreak. No mention of Rose unless Lance did the mentioning. Lance even permitted Derek to carry him upstairs on nights when Frank was late in order, they all knew, to see Rose alone.

"I'll help you with the dishes," Derek offered after taking Lance upstairs. "I'm bursting with a surprise, young Merriner, and I'm not good at keeping secrets!"

"Tell me quick, then. I don't want you to burst in my clean, respectable kitchen."

"Not until the dishes are done," he stipulated.

"Bother the dishes!" she scoffed. "Tell me now, and if it's good enough, the dishes can wait till morning."

"You and I," he

There is something about "quicksand" which makes many persons shudder. They have read of people sinking into it, sometimes losing their lives.

Quicksand is a mass of sand mixed with water. It will not bear the weight of a human being or an animal. It is found most often in river beds, at the mouths of rivers, and along the shores of seas and oceans.

If it were not for certain points, quicksand would be no more dangerous than a pool of water of the same depth. The points of which I speak are these:

A person cannot tell how far down the quicksand goes.

If he tries to find the bottom, he may not touch it and will be almost as firmly stuck as if he were in a mass of mud.

Quicksand is a trap something like a pit covered with branches to capture an elephant or other animal. A person steps on it without knowing what it is, and then goes down.

It is important for a person to "keep your head" if you ever happen on quicksand. If you spread out your weight, you may be able to crawl or roll out of the danger zone.

George Hrin, a water service workman in Milwaukee, stepped into quicksand last November. To locate a leak in a water main, he and two other men had dug a hole a few hundred feet from the shore of Lake Michigan.

The hole was 10 feet deep, and the bottom seemed very muddy, so Hrin went to the bottom with buckets to scoop up the mud and sand to his comrades above.

Suddenly he felt his feet sinking fast into quicksand. By the time he could call for help, he was almost waist-deep in the mire.

A rope was let down, and he tied it around his body, beneath his arms. The other men tried to pull him up, but were not able to do so.

One man then ran to a fire alarm box while the other held to the rope.

Soon a crew of 20 firemen arrived. With a pump, they removed as much of the quicksand as possible, then dragged Hrin to safety.

Joins Air Corps

Memphis, Tenn. (AP) — Steve Wilkerson was good enough as a fighter to win a national intercollegiate title for the University of Mississippi.

In the last two years he has fought professionally.

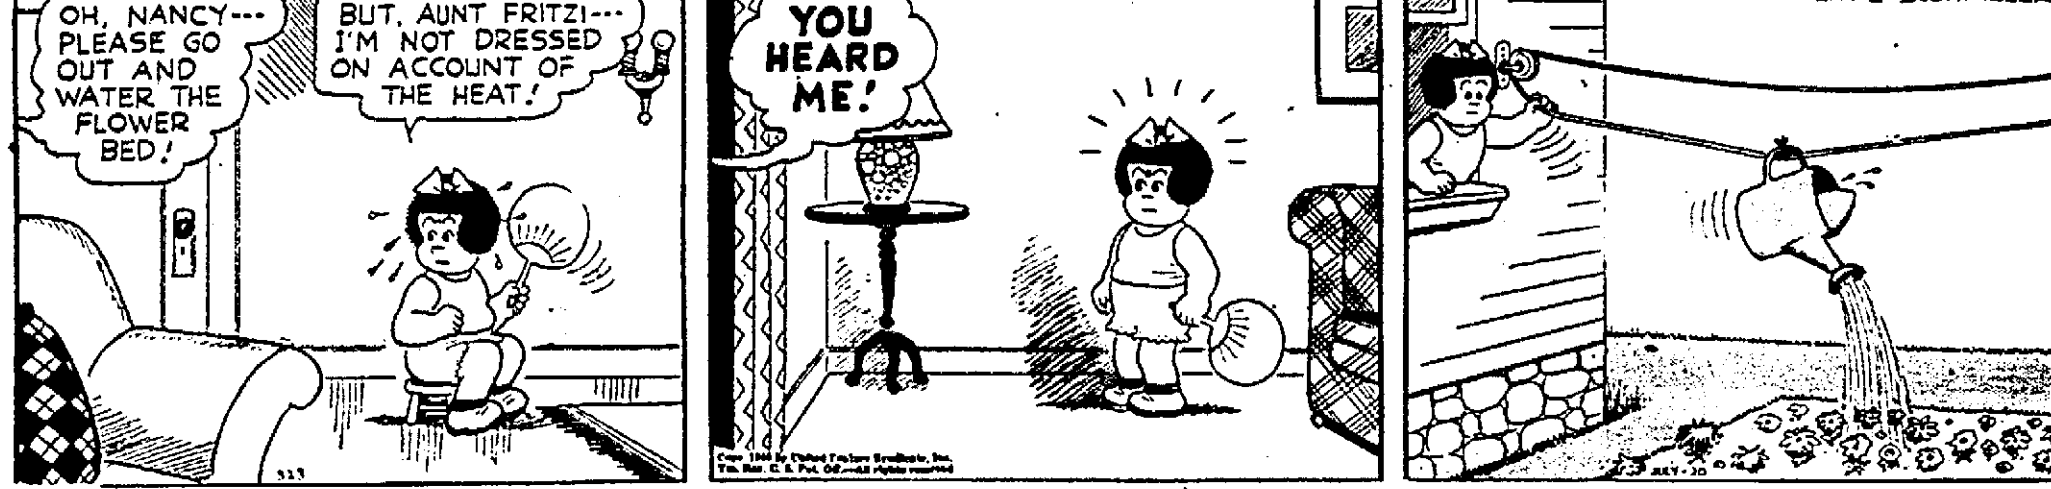

Now Steve has put away his gloves to join the U. S. Army air corps, where he figures "my fighting might do some good if it's needed."

Maxine Schalk, Neenah, to Be Bride of Appleton Man

The same orange blossoms that her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Charles Brockman, Appleton, wore for her wedding will hold the short veil which Miss Maxine Schalk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max W. Schalk, 300 Congress street, Neenah, will wear with her bridal ensemble this afternoon when she is married to L. Robert Graef, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lothar Graef, 914 E. College avenue. Her gown of white marquisette has inserts of Valenciennes lace in its very full skirt, and identical lace is used at the square neckline and as the bands for the short puffed sleeves. The bride will carry a small bouquet of tiny white Finch roses, around the edge of which will be a row of light blue delphinium buds, the only color in her ensemble.

The Rev. W. R. Courtenay, pastor of First Presbyterian church, Neenah, will perform the ceremony at 4 o'clock this afternoon before the fireplace at the Schalks' colonial style home. Single tall candelabra each holding seven tapers will stand at either side of the fireplace, and there will be bouquets of flowers at each side of the mantel. It is particularly fitting that the large painting that hangs over the mantel is one of a sailboat skimming around a buoy, for both the bride and bridegroom are sailing enthusiasts.

Richard Graef, Niagara Falls, N. Y., twin brother of the bridegroom, will be best man, and Donald Schalk, Neenah, and Charles Nuzum, Tomah, Wis., brother and cousin, respectively, of the bride, will be ushers. The bride, who will be given in marriage by her father, will be unattended.

A string ensemble will play for Ann Melzer, daughter of Mrs. Walter Melzer, 109 W. Winnebago street, became the bride of Harold Zachow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zachow, 118 Jackson street, Neenah. The Rev. W. Sandrock performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Melzer, Neenah, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, attended the couple.

A reception will be held at the home of the bride's mother for the immediate families Sunday evening. The couple will reside at 414 W. Wisconsin avenue. The bride was employed by the Wisconsin Telephone company. Mr. Zachow is in the employ of the Kimberly-Clark corporation.

Reinhold-Williams

Given in marriage by her father in a ceremony at 12:30 this afternoon at St. Boniface Episcopal church, Chilton, Miss Madeline Reinhold, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Reinhold of Chilton became the bride of Donald T. Williams, son of Mrs. William P. Williams, 208 N. Brooks street, Madison. The Rev. A. E. Plaum, pastor, read the service and the bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. E. C. Meyer, Bangor, Maine, as matron of honor. Dr. Bernhard Damagalla, Madison, was best man, and E. C. Meyer of Bangor and Roy Williams of Madison were ushers.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony and a wedding breakfast was served at Crystal Lake resort near Elkhart Lake. After a honeymoon trip to Colorado Mr. and Mrs. Williams will make their home at 103 N. Randall avenue, Madison. The bride, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, has been teaching in the Madison public schools. Mr. Williams, also a Wisconsin graduate and a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity, is employed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company in Madison.

The wedding guests are Mrs. Louis Orthlieb, Dr. and Mrs. P. H. Artlieb, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Orthlieb, Chilton; Miss Meta Jess, Appleton; Mrs. W. P. Williams, Roy and W. A. Williams, Mrs. Rhea Rivard, the Misses Maude Howarth, Helen Simon, Frieda Ferber and Mary Kier, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Becher and Henry O. Hahn, Madison; Mr. and Mrs. Price Williams, Evanston, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jordan and son, Billy, La Crosse; Miss Aurelia Steffes, J. Diehl, Miss Ruth Schulz, Henry Vogel, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Klein, Miss Mary Neumeier, Milwaukee; Miss Thelma Johnson, Wausau; Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Allen, Fond du Lac.

Mittag-Arnold

The Rev. F. M. Brandt, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran church, will solemnize the marriage of Mrs. Emily Mittag, 202 W. Commercial street, and J. P. Arnold, retired postal employee of Milwaukee, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The couple will be attended by Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Kuckhan, Milwaukee. Mrs. Mittag's brother-in-law and sister, after a wedding dinner for members of the immediate family at the Candle Glow Tea room, the couple will take a trip to Northern Wisconsin. They will live at their summer home at Kelly lake, near Suring, Wis., till Oct. 1.

WILDERNESS CAMP—The peeled log siding of the main buildings at the new Appleton Girl Scout camp at Chalk Hills on the Manominee river is particularly suited to the wild, natural beauty of the camp setting. Located in the middle of a wild life refuge, the camp provides ample facilities for nature study and outdoor activity. At the upper left is the waterfront showing the watch-guard tower and the T-shaped pier, also the roped off areas for non-swimmers, beginners and expert swimmers. The gate at the extreme left provides an extra check on campers, for only those qualified may pass through it to the swimming area. In the center circle is shown a typical camper's tent. Made of canvas on a raised platform, the tent is screened and protected with awnings and accommodates five cots. The infirmary and nurse's living quarters is shown at the upper right, while at the lower left is the main lodge containing the dining room and kitchen. The wash house is at the lower right.

Katharine Pratt Married In Ceremony at Green Bay

Floor length white marquisette gowns and picture hats of starched net formed the costumes of the bride and her only attendant at the wedding of Miss Katharine Pratt and James Lison which took place at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Patrick's church in Green Bay. Miss Pratt, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. K. Pratt, 122 N. Lawe street, and her matron of honor, Mrs. Gordon E. Derber of Appleton, wore nearly identical gowns with fitted bodices, long full skirts and puffed sleeves, the only difference being that the bride's sleeves were wrist length while Mrs. Derber's were short.

An arm bouquet of American beauty roses was carried by Miss Pratt who was given in marriage by her father, and Mrs. Derber's bouquet was of garden flowers. The Rev. James E. Meagher, pastor of St. Patrick's church, read the service and said the nuptial mass. Mr. Lison, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Lison of Green Bay, had as his best man his brother, Alfred Lison, Jr., Green Bay. Guests were ushered to their seats by Richard Maloney, Green Bay, and Gordon E. Derber, Appleton.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at Beauport hotel in Green Bay to the bridal party and the immediate families. This afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock the newlyweds will receive about 225 guests at Riverview Country club after which they will leave for a 2-weeks trip to an unannounced destination. Mr. and Mrs. Lison will reside on Port Washington avenue in Milwaukee.

In addition to a large number of guests from Appleton and Green Bay, those attending the wedding are Mrs. Roy Curtiss, Delmar, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hennoch, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McGinn, Miss Alice Pratt and Mrs. Selma Stack Milwaukie; Mr. and Mrs. George N. Baldwin, Gillett; Mr. and Mrs. Tad Meyer, Wisconsin Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. George Christensen, Glencoe, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Sebald, Ridgewood, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. W. Sebald, Manawa; and Mrs. O. R. Ullrich, Plymouth.

Miss Pratt, a graduate of Lawrence college, and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, has been teaching in Wauwatosa. Mr. Lison is associated with the Pillsbury Flour Mills company in Milwaukee.

Hoefle-Glerum

Miss Emilie Hoefle, daughter of Mrs. Henrietta Hoefle, Brillion, became the bride of Walter B. Glerum, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Glerum, Kenosha, in a ceremony at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the Trinity Lutheran church at Brillion, the Rev. M. F. Sauer reading the marriage service.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Mrs. Gilbert Jaekles, Okauchoe Lake, as matron of honor, and by another cousin, Miss Ruth Dommer, Algoma, and Miss Jane Easton, Kenosha, as bridesmaids. Rudolph Hartnek was best man, and Theodore Schend and Gilbert Jaekles were the other attendants. Before the ceremony Miss Helen Jane Horn sang "I Love Thee," by Grieg.

A reception will be held from 2:30 to 5 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's mother for 100 friends and relatives. A wedding dinner will be served at the Trinity Lutheran church dining rooms to 70 guests.

Mack-Ross

C. J. Mack, 227 Ahnaip street, Menasha, will escort his daughter, Patricia, to the altar of St. Paul's English Lutheran church, Neenah, at 4 o'clock this afternoon and give her in marriage to Robert Stanley Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ross, 645 Elm street, Neenah. The young people will repeat their vows after the Rev. Samuel H. Roth. The bride will wear with her wedding costume a pearl necklace as the "something old" in the bridal tradition. Mr. Ross gave the necklace to Miss Mack. Miss Gladys Michaelsen will play the wedding march. Mrs. Wayne Bridge will be her sister's matron of honor and Miss Cecelia Bunker and Miss Karen Mack, a sister of the bride, will be bridesmaids. Earle Miller, Appleton, will be best man and ushers

Girl Scout Troop To Spend Week at Chalk Hills Camp

Seven members of the Orthopedic school troop of Girl Scouts will be among the group leaving Sunday for a week's stay at the Appleton Girl Scout camp at Chalk Hills. The Orthopedic campers are Ellen Buetow, Dorothy Hedberg, Elaine Hoffmann, Eunice Kirk, Gloria Meyer, Shirley Seidl and Carol Quella.

The Orthopedic camp is something new in Appleton Scouting events, made possible this year through adequate facilities at the new camp at Chalk Hills and the complete infirmary which will house the children. The camp committee has expressed satisfaction that these youngsters can enjoy a normal camp experience among other children of their own age and still be assured of complete care and protection while in camp. Miss Florence Miller of the Orthopedic staff will accompany the group and supervise them in camp.

Other girls who will leave Sunday for a week at Chalk Hills are Eva Mae Lendt, Katherine Benton, Joan Frasley, Bette Schlitz, Helen Ballin, Donna Rosenzweig, Katharine Mory, Margaret Haug, Betsy Zwicker, Aurelia and Verda Seyfert, Verdaine Hob, Derris Hoffman, Janice Garvey, Dorothy Miller, Janet Playman, Janet Hinton, Margot Dybus, Elizabeth and Suzanne Manuel and Beverly Steffen, Appleton; Dorothy Godfrey and Beverly Hoffmann, Wauwata; Patricia Lovesey, Briggsville; Catherine Daniels, Stevens Point; Marian Stegman, Marian Carroll, Eileen Irgens, Mary Jane Hajengo and Mary Ann Murphy, Portage.

The following week, July 28, Sally Vile, Nickie Bendt, Jean Bunks, Patricia Neuman, Joan Fourness, Ruth Wilson, Phyllis Koltisch, Grace Grist and Jean Borschell will go.

Will include Wayne Bridge and James Leopold.

A wedding dinner will be served at the Valley Inn, Neenah, and Mr. Ross and his bride will receive their friends from 7 to 10 o'clock in the evening. When the young people return from a trip to northern Wisconsin, they will make their home at 15 Broad street, Menasha. Mr. Ross is employed by the Banta Publishing company, Menasha.

Stacker-Harder

Miss Myrna Stacker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Stacker, route 3, Neenah, will become the bride of Wilbur J. Harder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Harder, route 2, Neenah, in a ceremony at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Winchester Lutheran church. The young people will repeat their vows after the Rev. Adrian Olson. Miss Clara Anderson will play the wedding march as the bride party enters the church and Leo Anderson will sing "Because" during the ceremony. Miss Lorraine Erickson will be the bride's only attendant and Irving Harder will act as best man for his brother.

A wedding supper for the immediate members of the families will be served at the Poinsettia tea room and this evening Mr. Harder and his bride will entertain at a wedding dance at the Greenville Grange hall. They will make their home on a farm on route 2, Neenah.

Weigelt-Bauer

Miss Virginia Weigelt and Robert N. Bauer, both of route 1, Appleton, were married at 2:30 Thursday afternoon in the parsonage of Mt. Olive Lutheran church by the Rev. R. E. Ziesemer.

Appleton Girl Scout Camp At Chalk Hills Will be Formally Dedicated Sunday

Visitors to the Appleton Girl Scout camp at Chalk Hills Sunday for the formal dedication of the camp will find a charming little village of log buildings and canvas tents suitable for housing 40 campers in the midst of a wilderness. The buildings, all erected this year with the exception of one, include a main lodge containing the dining room and kitchen, a infirmary with nurse's living quarters, a wash house, insulated building for storing fresh supplies, a pump house and pressure tank, and 10 tents. The headquarters building on Porcupine hill was on the grounds before and was included in the gift by the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

The main lodge which is in T-shape is composed of a dining and recreation room 24 by 44 feet and a kitchen and store room 16 by 24 feet. Adjustable shutters serve as awnings when open and may be closed against inclement weather. A 4-bed ward, dispensary, nurse's living quarters and screened porch to accommodate 4 beds makes up the infirmary building which is 20 by 20 feet with a peeled log siding exterior to match the other buildings. A hard wood floor has been installed. It has running water and commands a fine view of the lake and activities area, but far enough removed from the units and activities to be quiet. The Orthopedic school pupils will be housed here during their week at camp, with Mrs. David Bishop, Green Bay, acting as nurse for the next three weeks.

The wash house is most complete with two showers, a drinking bubbler and large wash basin with 12 faucets. Water is supplied through the pressure pump from the lake. A concrete floor has been laid.

The living quarters are all canvas screened tents on raised platforms equipped with awnings. Five cots are accommodated in each tent and five tents make up a unit. This year two units have been developed, the Popple Knoll and the Oak Grove.

Behind the main lodge are located the insulated building for fresh supplies and the pump house and pressure tank. The waterfront facilities consist of a long permanent T-shaped pier extending into the water which graduates in depth from shallow to about five feet. An area is roped off with float ropes to the right of the dock for non-swimmers, and to the left of the dock is the beginners' area where instruction is given and tests taken. Twenty-five yards out from the pier is a large floating dock on which are diving boards for the advanced swimmers and divers. This area which is roped off from the end of the dock on which are diving boards for the advanced swimmers and divers. This area which is roped off from the end of the dock is used only by girls who have passed their deep-water swimming tests and are expert swimmers. Life buoys are placed advantageously and guards in row boats are stationed during the swim periods.

At the shore end of the dock a 20-foot tower of cedar posts has been erected, holding a watch-guard platform covered with an awning. From this position the life-guard can keep a check on all swimmers and supervise all activity. The entire swimming area is enclosed by a fence with a gate leading to the dock, thus barring all non-swimmers from the area, although they may observe from back of the fence.

A picnic supper and informal social evening was enjoyed by members of Valparaiso University guild, their families and friends last night at Alicia park. About 55 persons attended. Miss Hilda Koehnke was chairman of the arrangements and her assistants were Mrs. Herman Franck, Mrs. B. E. Mayerhoff and Mrs. W. F. Kelm.

In honor of Mrs. Clayton Rector, Evanston, Ill., and Mrs. Roy Marston, Jr., Akron, Ohio, was the bridge-luncheon given by Mrs. Guy W. Carlson and Mrs. E. S. Colvin Friday at the home of Mrs. Carlson, 628 N. Leminwah street. Bridge was played and prizes won by Mrs. Roy Marston, Sr., and Mrs. Elmer Root and the guests of honor received guest prizes. Mrs. J. B. Deibler, Highland Park, Ill., who is visiting at the Clyde Chapelle residence, was the other out-of-town guest. Mrs. Clayton Rector is a guest at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Rector, and Mrs. Roy Marston, Jr., is spending this week at the Roy Marston, Sr., home.

Announce Betrothal Of Former Lawrence Coed at Milwaukee

The engagement of a former Lawrence college student, Miss Margaret Jane Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Peters, N. Bartlett avenue, Milwaukee, to Norbert F. Schumaker, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Schumaker, N. Prospect avenue, Milwaukee, was announced at a party given Thursday night at Milwaukee. The betrothal was revealed by the icing on little white cakes, on which the names "Pete and Norb" were written in pink.

Miss Peters became affiliated with Delta Gamma sorority while she was at Lawrence, and was graduated last year from Milwaukee-Downer college. Her fiancé attends Marquette university.

Among the guests at the announcement party was Miss Barbara Rounds, Appleton, who is studying at Miss Brown's school at Milwaukee this summer.

Brews to Play Appleton Nine On Home Field

Ladies' Day Will be Observed Sunday at Valley League Game

Kaukauna — Tomorrow will be ladies' day at the Kaukauna Mellow Brews game against the Appleton Gettlemen Brews in the Fox River valley league. All ladies will be admitted free to the game, Manager William J. Ganter announced.

The Gettlemen are undefeated so far the second half of the conference, winning their first two games. The Mellow Brews haven't been able to resume that winning streak of seven straight games which gave them the championship for the first half of the conference, losing their first two games this half.

Manager Ganter plans on sending Ray Dieckrich to the pitching mound tomorrow. Dieckrich lost his first game of the year to Neenah last Sunday when the Mellow Brews were the victims of the Neenah team's first victory of the year. The Kaws noted out the Appleton Gettlemen earlier this year, 5 to 4.

In addition to Dieckrich, the Mellow Brews will have Peck catching, "Lefty" Dieckrich at first, Van Drasek at second, Schuler at shortstop, and Wagester at third. The outfielders will be Vils, Kappell, and Gib Busse.

Kaukauna Youths at Eagle River NYA Camp

Kaukauna — Two Kaukauna young men, Kenneth Busse and George Steffen, are attending the NYA camp, Camp Kentuck, at Eagle River, Wis.

They were selected from a large number of youths because of their all-around records during the past year. The camp, which began this week and will last until August 1, offers intensive supervised health and body conditioning.

Supplementing the recreational program is a schedule of work projects including conservation, reforestation, and landscaping. Camp Kentuck is located in Vilas county on a 640-acre tract of state owned land lying along Lake Kentuck. It was loaned to the Wisconsin NYA by the state department of public welfare.

Celebration Will be Advertised on Radio

Kaukauna — A state-wide radio program to advertise the sequentennial celebration was mapped yesterday at a board meeting of the directors of the Kaukauna Advancement association.

The program will be a half-hour broadcast over the Wisconsin state network, giving the sequentennial advertising coverage from the upper peninsula of Michigan as far south as Chicago.

It will begin at 9 o'clock next Friday night and last for four weeks. The program will be broadcast from the stage of the Rialto theater and will consist of a quiz program and guest artists. It is being jointly sponsored by the advancement association, the theater, and the sequentennial committee.

25 Scales, Measures Are Reported Short

Kaukauna — Twenty five scales and measures were found short by Harold Frank, city scaler of weights and measures, according to the quarterly report from his office. He tested during the three months 790 grocer's scales and 25 meat market scales, where the short weight machines were found.

The city scaler adjusted one portable platform, two pumps, marked two other pumps for repairs, and condemned 28 automatic pumps.

One grocer had put dry fruit in cellophane bags too far in advance of the day of sale, causing the fruit to dry out and reducing the total weight by one or two ounces. The grocer agreed to fill the bags to the marked weight before selling.

Grignon Home Restoration To Start After Celebration

Kaukauna — Restoration of the old Grignon home by the WPA will not begin until after the sequentennial, William F. Wolf, director of the home, announced yesterday.

"If people see us working on the home at the time of the celebration, it would discourage them from coming in to view the historic collections of the Grignons in the home," he said.

He added that he thought restoration work would begin in about 30 days. The plans and blue-prints are complete according to the government regulations, and everything will be ready to begin then.

Last week the government authorized $12,000 for the restoration of the famous Kaukauna home, which was the first one in the state. The work will be carried on by the WPA.

The first thing to be done in the restoration, Mr. Wolf said, will be to reconstruct the foundation and replace the timbers. Following this the double porch will be added to the front of the house.

"The idea," Mr. Wolf explained, "is to restore it and exhibit it as it looked 100 years ago when it was built. Everything in it will be of the period of from 1750 to 1850, and will be only those things which were owned by the Grignon family at the time."

"It is our intention to build a museum separate entirely from the Grignon home to house the other historical relics."

Funds Donated by Club Used To Buy Books for Library

Kaukauna — From funds recently given the Kaukauna Public Library by the local Business and Professional Women's club, the library has purchased several books on advertising, vocational guidance, and biography.

These books are: "I Begin Again" by Bretz, the personal story of a person to whom life began a second time when she became completely blind in her adult life; "Careers for Women" by Filene, a book listing the advantages and disadvantages, the salary and various opportunities for advancement that can be found in various professions. "It's a Woman's Business" by Hamburger, reveals the story of modern business fashion advertising. The other book purchased through the fund is "The New Etiquette" by Wilson, a set of rules which keep time with the swiftest tempo and changing attitude toward manners of our present day life.

The library has also added several books to its young people's book shelf. One of them is by the famous novelist, Margaret Culkin Banning, and is entitled "Letters to Susan" in which the authoress writes informal letters to present to girls a cross section of modern life and the reasonable standards that must be adopted to meet the situations facing young girls today.

Another book, "Co-ediquette" by Eldridge, is a guide book for the girl who plans to enroll in college. "Manners for Millions," by Handia, is a book setting up a code of personal habits for men and women, emphasizing politeness, courtesy, and good breeding.

A book designed for the high school student is "Living with Others" by Goodrich. It includes discussions on good mixers, conversation, club membership, business relations, informal correspondence, and several other topics vitally necessary to the high school youth.

Hakbarth's Owls	0	2

Kaukauna — Kaukauna Machine corporation's team overwhelmed the Hakbarth Owls in the city softball league at the library diamond last night, defeating them 8 to 1.

The Owls made their runs in the last inning when Kuchelmeister scored. Jack Burton of the Hakbarth team received a badly bruised shoulder when he collided with first baseman Ed Mayer of the K. M. C. team as Burton was trying to beat out a hit.

The K. M. C. players took two runs by Kuhn and Etta in the first inning and four more in the third frame, with a home run by Stegen and scores by Etta, Powers and De Bruin. Licht hit a home run in the sixth and De Bruin accounted for another marker in the seventh.

Kuchelmeister started the game for Hakbarths but was relieved by Bisek in the third. Powers hurled the entire game for the machine corporation giving only three hits while his teammates got seven.

All Stars Will Meet Fond du Lac

Kaukauna — The Kaukauna Klub All Stars will try to even things up with the Rueping Leathers of Fond du Lac tomorrow morning when they meet them here. The game will start at 10:30 with a preliminary tilt between the Holy Cross CYO and the Marinette Gold Gables beginning at 9 o'clock.

The Klubs lost a close game to the Rueping Leathers last week at Fond du Lac. The Leathers have a record of 10 wins and no defeats, and have been scored on but four times.

Holding down first base for the Leathers is Bronko Malieschik who would be playing one of his last softball games this year before he leaves at the end of the month to start football practice with the Chicago Bears.

The lineup for the Klubs will be Sonny Filz at pitch, Kappell at catch, Dean at first, Alger at second, Johnson at third, Koehne at shortstop, Peterson at short center field, and McCormick, Burton, and Steger patrolling the outfield.

Announce Schedule for Pageant Rehearsals

Kaukauna — Rehearsals for the historical pageant, Kaukauna Kavalade, to be presented in conjunction with the sequentennial celebration, will begin Monday night.

Over 40 persons are expected to take part in the pageant. The times for the various groups in the pageant for Monday night are:

7:30. Boy Scouts and American Legion; 7:45. With the Indians; 8:00. Ceremony of annexation; 8:15. Indian trouble and British rule; 8:30. Army rule in Wisconsin; 8:45. Settlement of Kaukauna; 9:00. Early industries in Kaukauna; 9:15. Ball of 1890; 9:30. Juggies.

Each group will practice for 15 minutes every other night, it was announced.

90 Students Spend Summer at Loyola

Wausau — There are now 90 Jesuit scholars summering at Loyola Villa, the grounds of which are bounded by three lakes, Waubesa, Rainbow and Otter. The Rev. Patrick Regan, S. J., professor of theology at St. Mary's Seminary in Kansas, City, Kansas, is in charge. He has been here for the last five years; Loyola itself has been a well known establishment on the chain of lakes since 1896.

Every summer groups of student priests spend seven weeks here. In the 15-year curriculum preparatory to entering the Catholic priesthood only two such summers are allowed and both are taken at Wausau. Here the first two weeks are spent in relaxing pastimes such as painting boats or repairing school buildings.

Cubs and Dodgers Fight; Bruins Take Game, 11 to 4

Yankees Hit Homers and Blast Cleveland Indians by 15 to 6

The National league Chicago Cubs were in a fighting mood yesterday and not only drubbed the ambitious Brooklyn Dodgers 11 to 4, but exchanged fistcuffs with them.

The fight broke out in the eighth inning, when Hugh Casey hit Pitcher Claude Passeau of the Cubs with a pitched ball. Passeau tossed his bat at Casey and the fireworks were on.

Players from both dugouts sprang into action. Joe Gallagher, Dodger reserve outfielder, and Stan Hack, Cub third sacker, took several swings at each other.

When quiet was restored, Gallagher and Passeau were banished from the game.

As for the game itself, the Cubs collected 17 hits. Hank Leiber sent them away to a fine start with a first inning homer with the bases loaded. Bill Nicholson homered in the eighth with one on.

Passeau was credited with the victory, his eleventh of the season. Looking more and more like the club that pulverized the American league for four straight years, the New York Yankees sounded a note that must have been grimly familiar with yesterday's 15-6 third-straight victory over the erstwhile league leading Cleveland Indians.

Do it with Homers

For the Yankees did it their trademarked way—via homers. Babe Dahlgren hit two, Buddy Roser, who has sparked the current drive, got another—along with a single, double and triple for a perfect four—and Joe Gordon got the fourth. He hit it on a three-and-nothing pitch, believe it or not.

In battering down the Indians three-in-row, the Yanks picked on pretty fair pitchers—Bobby Feller, Al Milnar and Al Smith—while running the Indians' losing streak to six straight.

Seven runs in the first inning did the damage yesterday and the note of glee in the Yankee dressing room was marred only by the thought that Lefty Gomez, who was hit for a week or ten days. He was struck on the pitching hand by a ball off Roy Weatherly's bat.

Meanwhile the Detroit Tigers tightened their hold on first place by shutting out the Boston Red Sox, 4-0 behind the seven-hit hurling of Tommy Bridges. Rudy York hit a homer with one on.

Thornton Lee stopped the five game winning streak of the amazing Washington Senators, 9 to 1 with a five-hit job. The White Sox pounded Walter Masterson and Joe Kravakous for a dozen hits. Lee allowed only one Senator to get as far as second base after the second inning and yielded only two hits in the last six frames.

Washington, which had a five-game winning streak until today's game, took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Buddy Myer singled to center, stole second and scored as Jimmy Fofahl's grounder took a bad-hop over second baseman Skeeter Webb's head. Chicago, however, bounced back with three runs in a fourth-inning rally which featured doubles by Taft Wright and Luke Appling and a single by Mike Kreech.

Kravakous, who replaced Masterson starting the eighth, was blasted for six runs that inning, walking three in addition to allowing a triple by Kreech, a double by Bob Kennedy and singles by Mike Tresh and Webb.

Berardino Homers

Johnny Berardino's homer with one on in the ninth was the winning margin as the St. Louis Browns snapped a 14-game losing streak by beating the Athletics 9-7. The National league Cincinnati Reds remained three games ahead of Brooklyn since both absorbed beatings. The Reds outthrew the Boston Bees, but lost 8-7 when the Bees bunched four safeties with two Cincinnati errors in the seventh and eighth to win. In the second game, Johnny Rizzo's twelfth homer gave the Phils a 3-2 edge in the eighth, but Ernie Koy pumped one over the fence to score behind Enos Slaughter, who had walked. Then Joe Orenge doubled and Martin Marion singled him home.

Hal Schumacher gave the Giants a 5-2 win over the Pirates. He batted in three runs with a triple, and got credit for his seventh victory though the 90 degree heat wore him down and he had to be relieved.

Double Bills Scheduled For Chicago White Sox

Chicago—The revised schedule of the Chicago White Sox lists four double-headers and three night games for their next home stand which opens next week. Boston will arrive for single games July 23, 24, 25; the Yankees follow for a night game July 26, single game July 27; then Philadelphia July 30, July 31, (night game), Aug. 1; Senators Aug. 2, 3; and Sunday double bill Aug. 4; Cleveland Aug. 5, 6, (double-header); and 7; Detroit Aug. 9 (night game), 10 and 11 (Sunday double header).

Box and reserved seat tickets can be purchased in advance by mail for any of these games. However, the 25,000 grandstand and 5,000 bleacher seats do not go on sale for any game, night or daytime, until the gates are opened a few hours before game time.

Applying Drops To 5th Place In Bat Rating

McCosky Takes Over Lead With Radcliff Right on His Heels

New York —(AP)— Just to give you an idea how tight the American league batting championship race is, consider the case of Luke Appling.

Last week he was tied for the lead with young Taft Wright with a mark of .356. This week his average is .346—but he's down in fifth place.

Leader this week is Barney McCosky of the Tigers by the narrowest of margins over Rip Radcliff of the Browns. McCosky is hitting at .353 and Radcliff is at .350.

Wright, who led for two weeks, is in third place, tied with Lou Finney of Boston at .354.

The national league has no such troubles. Harry Danning, Giant catcher, continues to pace the field. His mark of .347 this week is a fraction better than it was last time the averages were compiled.

In second place is Merrill May of the Phillies, whose .331 gives him only a slim edge over the Cubs' hustling Billy Nicholson, who has .326.

Cubs Seek First Baseman; Grimm Says He'll Play

Chicago —(AP)— Nobody would receive quite as warm a welcome around Chicago Cub headquarters today as a first baseman of major league caliber.

The reason? The Cubs haven't got one. Glen Russell is abed recovering from an appendectomy and Phil Cavarretta is out with a broken ankle.

Cavarretta hurt his ankle last Tuesday, but the seriousness of the injury did not become known until yesterday. Third baseman Stan Hack played first Thursday and outfielder Hank Leiber filled in yesterday.

Meanwhile, Cub officials are scouring the bushes for an acceptable substitute. The club, short-handed before Cavarretta was laid out, now has only 20 able-bodied players in uniform—eight pitchers, three catchers, four infielders and five outfielders.

The club might call in Rip Collins, former Cub and St. Louis Cardinals first baseman now with Los Angeles, Chicago farm unit. An offer to help came from an unexpected source yesterday when radio announcer Charles Grimm offered his services for the time being.

Grimm, former star first baseman and later manager of the Cubs, said he was in fair shape, pointing out that he works out daily with the White Sox when they are at home.

Bowman was the big gun for the Papermakers getting four out of five. He was followed by U. Wilander who spanked the ball hard having two doubles and a single. Hofkins pitched the ninth inning for the Papermakers tuning up for Sunday's game with the Red Sox of Appleton here. Becker relieved Larson for Lena in the eighth.

Werner Credited With No-Hit Game

Bud Werner fanned 18 batsmen, chalked up a no-hit performance and was deprived of adding "no run" to his feat by a last-inning error as his Sacred Heart C. Y. O. team beat Winchester 4-1 at Winchester last night.

With two out in the final inning, an error allowed a man to score from third. Werner gave three walks.

The Winchester hurler, Kittleson, allowed six hits while walking seven. Steeger got a triple for the Appleton team and Gullison had two hits in four trips to the plate.

CUBS, DODGERS ENGAGE IN FREE-FOR-ALL—This is a general view of a free-for-all in the eighth inning of a Chicago Cubs-Brooklyn Dodgers baseball game in Chicago. The fighting started when Claude Passeau of the Cubs was hit by a pitched ball and threw his bat at Pitcher Hugh Casey of the Dodgers. When order was restored, Passeau and Joe Gallagher of the Dodgers, an outfielder, were banished from the field. Players and umpires shown are: Red Corriden, (1) Cub coach; Al Todd (2), Cub catcher; Manager Gabby Hartnett (3) of Cubs; Stan Hack (4), Cub third baseman; Bill Nicholson (5), Cub outfielder; Bobby Mattick (6), Cub shortstop; Casey (7); Joe Gallagher (8), Dodger outfielder; Passeau (9); Umpire Jorda (10); Umpire Sears (11). The Cubs won the game, 11 to 4.

Brewers Win In 9th Frame

Move Into 7th Place By Beating Red Birds 5-4 on Home Field

The Milwaukee Brewers, back on home soil once again, have begun the long pull back toward first division in the American association.

The Brewers, who dropped into a tie for last place during their recent feeble showing on an eastern trip, moved into seventh place last night with a 5 to 4 victory over Columbus and now are only a few points behind Indianapolis in sixth.

Ted Gullie put Milwaukee ahead with a homer in the first but the Birds erased this and went ahead with three runs in the fourth. This ended the scoring until the ninth when Columbus counted again. But in the last half of the ninth, the Brewers scored four runs, two coming on Charley English's circuit smash. The other two came on two walks and Gullie's double. Ernie White held the Brewers to three hits.

The score by innings:

	Columbus	000	300	001	4	5	1
Milwaukee	100	000	004	5	3	1	0

Kimberly '9' at Home Sunday

Meets Appleton Red Sox; Wallop Lena Club in Night Game

Kimberly — The Appleton Red Sox invade Kimberly Sunday afternoon at 2:15 to battle the village Papermakers. Cliff Burton, pitching ace of the college boys, is slated to stop the heavy hitters of Kimberly. Boucher is the likely mound choice of manager Wilander and with a good hot day should be at his best. The Papermakers need this win to remain in the running and believe they can do so at the expense of the rah-rah boys.

WALLOP LENA, 14-6

Kimberly — Lena came to town Friday night and tangled with the Papermakers but Sven Bowman and company was too much and won by a score of 14 to 6. The visitors scored four unearned runs due to loose infield play. Van Dyke, youthful second sacker, made a spectacular catch of Kinzinger's hard hit ball.

Bowman was the big gun for the Papermakers getting four out of five. He was followed by U. Wilander who spanked the ball hard having two doubles and a single. Hofkins pitched the ninth inning for the Papermakers tuning up for Sunday's game with the Red Sox of Appleton here. Becker relieved Larson for Lena in the eighth.

Mrs. Russell Mann Cops 3rd State Women's Golf Crown

Milwaukee—(AP)—Defending champion Mrs. Russell Mann of the Milwaukee Red Mound club won her third successive Wisconsin women's golf championship yesterday with a spectacular 1 up victory over Goldie Bateson in the 36-hole finals match at the Milwaukee Country club.

A successful seven-foot putt which enabled her to halve the final hole gave the victory to Mrs. Mann after she and Miss Bateson had matched stroke for stroke in halving every hole after the thirtieth.

Mrs. Mann took her one-up edge on the thirtieth by dribbling a 10-foot downhill putt into the cup for a deuce while Miss Bateson, two times state winner from the Westmoore club, took a three.

In the morning round, Mrs. Mann carded a 77, two over women's par, as she finished three-up over Miss Bateson, who took an 84. In the afternoon round, Miss Bateson played brilliantly to register a 79 against her opponent's 82.

Suzanne Snively, 16-year-old Janesville high school student, won the junior title with a 4 and 3 victory over Jane Blumenshine of Green Lake.

Marian Callahan, of Madison, captured the consolation championship with a 4 and 3 win over Mrs. K. D. Pierson, of the Milwaukee Country club.

The Green Bay Bluejays were in a vicious mood last night up at the Bay and pounded the Appleton Papermakers for 14 lusty wallops which produced a 12 to 5 victory.

It gave the Bays a clean sweep of their series and left Appleton only a few percentage points out of the league cellar.

Today the Papermakers are on their way west to battle LaCrosse on the latter's diamond. The Blackhaws have been handled rather roughly on their recent road trip and its possible the Papermakers will find them a setup for a win or two. Appleton took two and handed one away when they clashed here.

Bob LaGrow was on the hill for Appleton last night and was bumped for two runs in the opening heat. Sherman walked, Rudnicki tripled and then scored on Novak's fly to left.

Two more came in the second. Bedrava singled, Bluege doubled and Bedrava scored. Bluege scored on Rudnicki's single. A walk and a fly ball led to a run in the third and two more came in the fourth and LaGrow left the scene and Standaert came in trailing 7 to 0. He allowed five runs the remainder of the way.

Appleton got 'one in the fifth when Aronson walked, Malewig singled and Oberlander singled. In the sixth, Dancisk drew a walk, Chell flied but Malattia hit one out of the lot.

The seventh saw Delmore replace Belich for the Bays and Appleton got two more runs. Hawk was safe on Bluege's error and then Chell hit a homer over the center field wall.

SUNDAY'S GAMES

Appleton Gettelmans at Kaukauna

Neenah at Menasha

Appleton Red Sox at Kimberly

(Transferred.)

Little Chute—Sunday's games in the Fox River Valley league will be natural with pairings showing old rivals, especially the Appleton Gettelmans-Kaukauna Mellow Brew contest at the latter park.

The Kaws won the first game in the first half of the season with a late rally and the latter will be out to avenge the defeat. The Appleton nine is hoped to cop as it has two good hurlers in Bill Noffke and Lefty Fredericks while the Mellow Brews have only Ray Diederick and he has been off form the past two weeks. Last Sunday Wagester finished against Neenah and he seems to be the only reserve should Diederick again falter. Ben Peck will be on the receiving end for Kaukauna. Bill Noffke is expected to toss for Gettelmans although Lefty Fredericks is a jinx for Kaukauna. Horn or Kirk will don the mask and mitt for the invaders.

After their 15 to 8 victory over Kaukauna last Sunday in a slugfest, the Neenah Merchants will be gunning for their second victory as the expense of Menasha Falcons. Russ Wahlers will face the Falcons with Cash receiving. Connie Berry will be the mound for the home club with Herb Kosloski donning the armor. The Falcons scored wins over Kimberly and Appleton Red Sox in their second half start and are tied for the loop lead with Oshkosh and Appleton Gettelmans.

Appleton Red Sox transferred their home game to Kimberly as the result of a mixup in park dates at Appleton. Tom Murphy or Cliff Burton will be on the mound for the Red Sox with Eddie Helms receiving. Lefty Behr or Boucher will show on the hill for Kimberly with Buck Le May on the receiving end.

Kimberly has been bumped off twice this round and will have to get in the win column soon if it is to be among the winners when the season ends. It lost a hard-fought game to Menasha and a slugfest to Oshkosh.

Manitowoc will trek to Oshkosh to battle Bob Muegauer's clan in an attempt to pull the Cubs down into a tie. Klobier or Zintz will be on the mound for the Cubs with Muegauer or Roth receiving. Shimm or Kohls will be on the hill for the Ships with Steke receiving.

New London to Seek 2nd Win Sunday Night

Meets Clintonville In State Loop; Ships Oppose Two Rivers

NORTHERN STATE LEAGUE

(Second Half)

Manitowoc	1	0
New London	1	0

SUNDAY'S GAME

Two Rivers at Manitowoc

Clintonville at New London

(S. m.)

Seymour idle.

Two games are scheduled Sunday in the Northern State league. Manitowoc, first last champions, will be at home to their ancient rivals, the Two Rivers Polar Bears, while Clintonville, 1939 pennant winners, will invade New London. Both contests will be afternoon affairs.

Two Rivers is gunning for revenge as they still have to win a game from the Shipbuilders this season. The Polar Bears broke even in last week's games and they have high hopes of throwing Borths and company for a loss. Bob Nelson and Lachowicz will be the points for Two Rivers while it is Lefty Feltman's turn to work the Shipbuilders and Simons is to wear the mask and mit.

With the start of the second half, things have been looking brighter for New London. The win over Two Rivers put additional pep in the High Lifes' camp and Len Polaski's tribe will be bearing down plenty to put the skids under the visiting Truckers.

Manager Sid Feltz and Volkman will take care of the battery tasks for Clintonville. Pete Kakkaka, an Indian pitcher from Neopit, is to do the chucking for Neopit with O. Krohn behind the bat.

It is reported that both the High Lifes and Truckers may have several changes in lineup for this crucial game as the rival clubs are pulling every possible string to win the combat.

TRUCKERS PRIMED

Clintonville — The Clintonville Truckers baseball team will be after its first win of the second half of Northern State league play Sunday afternoon when they invade the New London stronghold. The Londoners are on the top of the league standings by virtue of their victory over Two Rivers last Sunday. The Truckers are in the cellar position since they have lost two games this half, bowing to Manitowoc last Sunday 8 to 4 and to Seymour Wednesday evening in a hard fought 2 to 0 game.

Both clubs have been reorganized the last few weeks. New London is under new management with Len Polaski replacing Mac Donner who recently resigned. In addition several new faces have appeared in the Londoners' lineup which has given them additional strength for the second half. Clintonville has added two men who should give the Truckers added punch. Both of these new players, Rohle Halfman and Al Schuauer, were with Wausau in the Northern league a few years back and besides being exceptionally good ball hawks in the outfield are heavy hitters.

In the first half, New London had the ax over the Truckers, winning two out of three games, 8 to 3 and 4 to 1. Their last meeting which was on the Fourth of July saw Clintonville turn tables on the Londoners after being on the short end of a 5 to 0 count going into the eighth frame. The Truckers staged a sensational comeback the last two innings and chalked up six runs to win out 6 to 5.

Manager Sid Feltz will be the Truckers' hope on the mound with Gene Volkman behind the plate. Feltz record for the season is four wins and three losses. The elongated hurler got off to a bad start this season and had his hands full managing the squad. Now he has more time to concentrate on pitching and should make things tough for New London Sunday. The rest of the lineup will see Milt Long on first, Frosty Ferzacca on second, Clancy Holm at short, Rohle Kersten on third, Al Schuauer in left field, Rohle Halfman, center, and Lefty Joe Petka, right field.

LEGAL NOTICES

STATE OF WISCONSIN,

COUNTY COURT, OUTAGAMIE

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF LARSEN DUE, deceased, known as MISS PETER DUE, Decedent.

PURSUANT TO THE ORDER made in this matter by the county court for Outagamie County on the 15th day of July, 1940.

NOTICE is hereby given that at a special term of said court to be held at the court house in the city of Appleton in said county, on the 20th day of August, 1940, at the opening of the court on that day, or as soon thereafter as the same can be heard and considered the petition of Louise Rasmussen for probate of the alleged will and testament of LARSEN DUE, also known as MISS PETER DUE, late of the Village of Black Creek, said county, deceased, and for letters testamentary, or letters of administration with said will annexed to be issued to Louise Rasmussen.

NOTICE is hereby also given that all claims for allowances against said deceased must be presented to said court on or before the 25th day of November, 1940, which is the time limited therefor, or be forever barred.

Weekly Review of Business

Firestone Manager Believes New Auto Travel Record Will be Set

According to Kenneth O'Gorman, manager of the Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store at 700 W. College avenue, motorists are "Seeing America First" this year. The approach of the peak of the summer vacation period indicates that automobile travel will set a new record during the summer season of 1940.

"Provision for personal comfort in touring," continues Mr. O'Gorman, "is one of the most important requirements for a pleasant, care-free vacation. It's wise to choose loose comfortable clothes. If they're washable, so much the better. Some people make it a rule to eat lightly while traveling by car and to postpone the heavy meals until in the evening. Sun glasses are on many people's 'must' list. They protect against road glare, drowsiness and headaches. Many motorists carry a small, compact toilet kit with soap, wash cloth and towels so they can freshen up frequently during hot, dusty weather.

"In the interest of safety, tires should be carefully checked for bulges and body breaks. Where tires are badly worn, it is best to replace them with new ones, especially in view of the current low tire prices. For cool comfort in the warm sections of the country, experienced motorists frequently put a small ventilated box of dry ice in the car and close the windows. Some suspend the container right under the open cowl ventilator to cool the incoming air.

Early Start Essential
"Motorists should remember that the best tourist homes and camps are generally filled by nightfall during the heavy travel season. For that reason an early start and the avoidance of night driving generally is the preferred schedule.

"The annoying rattle of loose tools, jacks and other equipment in a car can be eliminated by tying them together in an old section of inner tube. The jack and other equipment should be thoroughly tested before leaving on a trip to make absolutely sure that they fit and work properly. That takes minutes before the trip and may save hours enroute.

"Inexpensive items well worth their cost include a flashlight, whisk broom, shoe cloth, paper cups and a box of cleansing tissue.

"Jobs like changing tires, cleaning spark plugs, replacing broken fan belts often ruin a day's travel when they are done on the highway. A checkup before starting may save much annoyance on the way. Factory-trained men are available at Firestone sales outlets throughout the country. These men, just like those at our store, have been specializing in service for years."

Masonry Need Suggests Call to Robert Schultz

Experienced Contractor Will Give Free Estimates on Work

During the winter months it probably went unnoticed—when spring with its rainy season was in full force, little attention may have been given—but now that pleasant weather is here the need for concrete and masonry work around the home becomes very apparent.

That is where Robert A. Schultz, masonry and concrete contractor, 1228 W. Lawrence street, with more than 30 years of experience to his credit, comes in the scene. The con-

BUICK ASSEMBLES 4,000,000th CAR—The 4,000,000th Buick passenger car rolls off the final assembly line in Flint, Mich., signaling the highest continuous production in the history of this division of General Motors and a record breaking total for the 1940 model season. The milestone car was built four years and 36 days after the 3,000,000th was produced, registering an average production since 1936 of a quarter of a million cars annually and representing the shortest period in which this volume has been turned out by this manufacturer. It took nearly 20 years to manufacture the first million Buicks. Photo shows the 4,000,000th car leaving the production line guided by Buick workmen and Harlow H. Curdick, president, O. W. Young, general manufacturing manager, W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager, at the left of the car, and C. A. Chayne, chief engineer, and Fred Hoelzle, superintendent of final assembly, right. Local authorized sales and service dealers are the O. R. Kloehe Co., 210 N. Morrison street.

Test Coolerator For 10 Days to Prove Its Merit

Lutz Firm Offers Trial Offer Without the Slightest Obligation

There is always one sure way to get at the basic facts behind advertising claims and that says the Lutz Ice Company is to test the product advertised—without obligation or cost—under actual operating conditions and for a long enough period to really prove or disprove statements made about it.

With this in mind, the Lutz Company continues to make its 10-day free trial offer of the air-conditioned Coolerator which is open to everyone. To those already possessing some form of refrigeration whether it be the ice box or mechanical refrigeration, the trial can be made as a straight performance test and also as a side by side comparison with the type of refrigeration already used in the home.

The result, the Lutz firm believes, will show conclusively that the Coolerator brings results not obtainable with other types of refrigeration. The scientific and natural principle upon which the Coolerator works in conjunction with Lutz's crystal pure manufactured ice produces unequalled performance.

Used with the Joy-chef freezer that makes possible delicious fresh-frozen desserts in less than an hour, and the Coolerator Ice Cube Maker which gives pure ice cubes in five minutes, the Coolerator convenience becomes even more apparent. Add to this the fact that dishes never need to be covered, since the air-conditioning principle removes all food odors and prevents flavor fading, and most folks will be anxious to 'phone the Lutz Company at number 2 to test the Coolerator for 10 days without charge.

Berliner Beer On Must List Picnickers Say

Prompt Home and Tavern Delivery Service Offered

With picnicking the most popular pastime during these warm summer days and the parks and picnic grounds crowded with people, it is not surprising that Berliner beer is said to be just the right kind of beverage necessary to live up to any kind of get-together whether it be one of the out of door picnic type of gatherings or an indoor home party. Its popularity in this respect is based on the fact that Berliner beer has an unusually delightful flavor and possesses exceptional invigorating and refreshing qualities which are not common to all brands of beer.

Only the choicest hops and yeasts are used in the brewing of Berliner and the most deliberating care is observed in its production and that, generally speaking, explains its luxuriously full-bodied rich and gently stimulating qualities. That is why Berliner has a surprisingly universal appeal which captivates most users after a single trial.

Prompt tavern and home delivery service for Berliner is obtainable through Sam Mader, distributor, phone 3029.

Floor Surfacing Expertly Done by Richard Baseman

There is no good excuse for any home to have dirty, worn, unsightly floors is the belief of Richard Baseman, well-known floor surfacing contractor, who has shown in his jobs of floor surfacing throughout the vicinity the unusual possibilities of brightening up to like-new condition even the most worn out flooring.

Any floor, old or new, badly worn, painted, varnished, stained, or unfinished oak, maple, pine, birch, or any other wood can be quickly and economically surfaced to a clear, glass-like smoothness, Baseman points out, with the grain of the wood brought out like new.

His work is done quickly at very reasonable prices with an electrically-driven American floor surfacing machine, featuring a vacuum fan which deposits all dirt in a bag, leaving no unsightly after-effects. Over 10 years experience in this type of work qualifies Mr. Baseman to advise and perform any type of related work regarding floor surfacing.

Newly laid floors, too, are easily and quickly brought to a clean, smooth surface by the "American" method as employed by Baseman. This method, he explains, saves the builder or general contractor much back-breaking labor and does the work more quickly and better and at far less cost.

Mr. Baseman is happy to quote prices on any job, regardless of size, and explain the modern method employed in his work without any obligation on the part of the homeowner. He may be reached by phoning number 3688.

Roosevelt Will Emphasize Foreign Issues in Campaign

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Chicago—Judging by President Roosevelt's radio acceptance speech to the Democratic National convention, he intends to keep major emphasis upon foreign affairs during his campaign for re-election against Wendell Willkie, the Republican candidate.

This seemed evident first in Mr. Roosevelt's statement that the dangerous world situation would prevent him from traveling far from the White House or from devoting much time and attention to purely political debate.

But it was more evident in the obvious attempt which President Roosevelt made to hang the tag of "appeasement" upon his Republican opposition. Several times Mr. Roosevelt warned of the danger of appeasers coming into power. Of course Mr. Willkie has shown no more inclination toward appeasement than has Mr. Roosevelt. Nevertheless the president's speech lunged into the attack and put it up to Mr. Roosevelt to defend and explaining himself. Mr. Roosevelt may be too busy with the dangerous international situation to devote much thought to politics but he knows how to drive the rapier thrust with a quick twist. It was clear from his acceptance speech, a shrewd and persuasive address, that Mr. Willkie will have to be on his toes to escape being outboxed.

Other Democratic campaigners doubtless will attend to less lofty questions, particularly to the matter of giving Mr. Willkie the good old electric message. TVA has just assumed new importance as a defense project and you may be sure that other Democratic speakers will take every opportunity to keep the country reminded of Mr. Willkie's fight against TVA. On the domestic side the attack will be directed largely at Mr. Willkie the utility man. His attack on certain features of the Utility Holding Company act will be constantly referred to and it will be charged—indeed, has been charged—that the Republican candidate, if elected, will begin pulling the switches on public power and will favor a loosening up of restrictions on private power companies.

Those are the two main lines of attack that seem to have emerged from the exciting events here at Chicago. But there is another side of the story. The Republicans, you may be sure, will keep the country reminded of the third-term question. They will rehearse the details of the manipulations by which intimates of the president brought about his third-term renomination without being in any way restrained by the president. Two years or more ago members of the president's official family began agitating for his renomination and they continued until the last vote was in here at the Chicago convention. Mr. Roosevelt may, as he says, have had a desire to retire, but it did not cause him to check the operations of his own intimates. In fact during recent weeks the management of the campaign, and the management of the renomination here, has been in the hands of his intimate friend and cabinet member, Secretary Harry Hopkins, who has been living at the White House for several weeks.

As President Roosevelt said in his acceptance speech, the issue of the third term will be decided by the people. This campaign is bound to be a landmark in American politics. If the country re-elects President Roosevelt, then the objections to a third term in the future will disappear. If the country does not re-elect him, the tradition will be entrenched beyond the likelihood of any future president overturning it. It is unfortunate that our election falls during this world crisis. The battle of England apparently is imminent. What if the Germans try to seize the Azores? We may have to make difficult and historic decisions quickly. It is not good that a president, in the midst of a campaign to be re-elected, should have to make them when public opinion is inflamed by political campaign heat, and when his decisions may be subjected to more than usual misinterpretation and attack. It is a stern test for the intelligence and poise of democracy, and demands much restraint and coolness on the part of the voters as well as the candidates.

Travel Bureau Tells About Vacation Tours

Several Outstanding All-Expense Bargain Tours Featured

Among the many outstanding all-expense tours being offered to vacationists this summer through the services of the Appleton Travel Bureau in the Zuelke Building are a number of exceptionally popular and economical tours which the bureau wholeheartedly endorses. In this list are included the Western Tours to Yellowstone, Zion, Bryce Canyon, California, and Canadian Rockies, Pacific and Northwest and Colorado, the Alaska Tours, Mexican Tours, and the New York World's Fair Tours by way of Niagara Falls and Washington.

All-American vacation trips boasting the following high spots, Glacier Park, American Rockies, Seattle, Victoria, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Hollywood, film studios, and the Grand Canyon still have reservations open in the groups leaving July 28, August 11, and August 25. Cost from Chicago for this 14 day all-expense tour is only $174.00 which is considered to be a real vacation bargain. Kirkland's glorious 10 day Western vacation tours, taking in California and the Grand Canyon, Canadian Rockies and Pacific Northwest are offered at $165.00 with groups leaving every Saturday up to August 31.

A 27 day all-expense tour to Alaska is a "A" feature tour listed at $380.33 with groups leaving July 27 and August 10. Points of particular interest included in this tour are Skagway, West Taku Arm, Pacific Northwest, Mt. Ranier and the Canadian Rockies. A visit to the famous Jasper national park in the Canadian Rockies described by those who have visited the park as possessing beauty which lives forever in the hearts of those who have seen and enjoyed its wonders is a highlight of the Alaska tour.

The park is the largest in America, possessing 4,200 sq. miles. Modern accommodations are provided for all types of recreation. Jasper Park Lodge is considered to be one of the finest fashion summer resort lodges in the country, combining luxury with simplicity. Spaciousness without bulk with ample accommodations for 650 guests. Of first importance, however, is the exquisite scenery which visitors agree is indescribably beautiful.

Escorted tours to Mexico are said to be especially popular this summer. The Appleton Travel Bureau calls attention to the Official Mexico Tour and the Pan-American Specials Tour which are featured. The Official Tour takes 14 days while the other is scheduled for a 19 day period. Places of interest included on these tours are St. Louis, Laredo, Monterrey, San Luis Potosi and Mexico City, Toluca, Guadalupe and Pyramids, Xochimilco, Guernavaca and Taxco, Puebla and Cholula and San Luis Potosi. Groups for the Official Tours are leaving on July 21, August 4, and 18 and on the Pan-American specials July 28 and August 11. Costs are $152.50 from Chicago for the 14 day tour and $201.50 for the Pan-American.

A 13 day tour to California is listed at $118.75, a sensational 17 day thrift tour to New York World's Fair, Washington and Niagara Falls for only $49.50 and a 10 day tour to New York World's Fair and Bermuda at $108.30 and a 13 day World Federation Education Association tour to Mexico City and vicinity for $198.54.

All tours mentioned offer air-conditioned pullman transportation, excellent meals, first class hotels, lots of sightseeing, handling of baggage, and complete freedom from travel worries assuring most pleasant vacation regardless of which one you may choose.

Complete details outlining important features of these and dozens of other tours may be had by writing the Appleton Travel Bureau or by calling its phone number, 4635. Reservations, tickets, and information concerning the tours is offered without additional cost from the price of the tour. Small deposits will assure reservations on practically any of the tours the Bureau offers.

It is unfortunate that our election falls during this world crisis. The battle of England apparently is imminent. What if the Germans try to seize the Azores? We may have to make difficult and historic decisions quickly. It is not good that a president, in the midst of a campaign to be re-elected, should have to make them when public opinion is inflamed by political campaign heat, and when his decisions may be subjected to more than usual misinterpretation and attack. It is a stern test for the intelligence and poise of democracy, and demands much restraint and coolness on the part of the voters as well as the candidates.
